

CARRANZA ADVISORS ARE DEFIANT, CLAIM REPORTS

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Private advices reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City today, said General Carranza and his advisors had determined to stand by orders to General Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico moving in any direction except toward the border, and that no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States. A faction of the Mexican cabinet, it was said, was urging an even more defiant attitude and wanted to include in the reply to the American request for a statement of intentions, a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now on Mexican soil.

RUSH MILITARY PREPARATIONS ALONG THE MEXICAN BORDER; WILSON LEAVES FOR NEW YORK

Washington, D. C., June 30.—When President Wilson met his cabinet today just before leaving for New York to deliver an address, unfavorable private reports had not reached him and there were practically no new developments in the Mexican crisis to be considered. Military preparations are being rushed to completion, however, but diplomatically there is nothing to be done until Carranza's reply is received, or it becomes apparent that he will not respond within a reasonable time.

Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican Ambassador designate, called on Mr. Lansing early in the day, to communicate formally the information that his government had ordered the release of the American troops captured at Carrizal.

A brief talk followed during which Mr. Lansing took occasion to make it plain that the Washington government expected an early reply to its note forwarded to Mexico City last Sunday. The Ambassador was impressed with the fact that the state department was growing impatient at the delay.

All members of the cabinet agreed at the meeting that both the situation and the policy of the United States were unchanged as a result of recent developments. The release of the captured troops has delayed military action, but has not relieved the critical diplomatic situation now existing. Several reports from Special Agent Rodgers referring to refugees or routine matters did not mention the Mexican note. He has had no right to shed on the probable course General Carranza would take. It is known, however, that interests in the Mexican capital have been exerting every effort to prevent a break, are much discouraged.

Should the Mexican reply follow the line indicated and be in defiance of the United States, however its meaning might be wrapped about with diplomatic language, there is no indication that the administration would (Continued On Page Eight)

Sing Sing, N. Y., June 30.—Oreste Shillatini was executed in the state prison this morning for the murder three years ago of two New York policemen who were attempting to arrest him for killing a third man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillatini made no pretense of insanity during the trial, but became apparently crazed with terror in the death house a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed.

A week ago he obtained possession of a revolver, shot and killed one of the keepers in the death house and wounded another and escaped but was recaptured.

A MEXICAN LINE RIDER IS KILLED

El Paso, Texas, June 30.—A Mexican line rider of the Carranza customs service, was killed last night by a squad of American soldiers who fired across the Rio Grande into Mexican territory near Yaleta 12 miles east of El Paso, according to a report received by General Gonzales in Juarez today.

Mexican officials claimed that the guard, named Juan Moren, was riding along the Mexican side of the river in the performance of his duties with a fellow customs guard, when the Americans opened fire without warning.

The story as told by the survivors, placed the number of Americans at eight.

Considerable indignation was expressed in Juarez over the affair and General Gonzales sent a complaint to General Bell who said he would investigate.

The military supplies lost in the Carrizal fight arrived in Juarez from Chihuahua today. They consisted of twenty-seven horses, 53 rifles, a number of pistols, several thousand cartridges and other equipment. The negro troops of the Tenth brought here from Chihuahua remained at the hospital at Fort Bliss, awaiting release after it had been proven that they had contracted no disease while in Mexico.

Many Want To Join 'Roosevelt's Volunteers'

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enlistment in a proposed volunteer army division which Colonel Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers, are so numerous that the Colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applicants from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is physically impossible to reply individually to the organizations and to the men who have communicated with us, but I will see that their applications are carefully filed for future reference so that in the event of hostilities they can be apprised of what action is contemplated."

Offers of equipment include almost everything necessary from shoes to automobiles and aeroplanes.

WANT WILSON TO INTERVENE FOR CASE- MENT

Washington, D. C., June 30.—A resolution requesting the President to ask the British government for a stay of execution of Sir Roger Casement, the Irish leader, convicted of treason yesterday in London, pending presentation of new facts, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Martine, of New Jersey. Immediate consideration was sought, but on insistence of Senator Martine, it was referred to the foreign relations committee.

Senator Martine introduced the resolution at the request of Mrs. Agnes Newman, Casement's sister, who came here early today from New York. Mrs. Newman hoped to have an audience with President Wilson, but he was leaving for New York and could not see her. She talked with Senators Martine, James and O'Gorman.

TRY, TRY, AGAIN ADAGE WINS OUT

The Stronger Never Say Die, While the Weaker Become Disheartened.

The old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again," has worked wonders for most of us. Some time in the lives of everyone we imagine things are going against us. The weaker become discouraged and give up, while the stronger face this great game of life with staunch hearts, clear brains and steady hands, and with this good old adage as their slogan.

Probably more persons become discouraged over continued ill health than from any other cause. The records of every city will bear this out. Others, who probably suffered as much physical pain and agony as their mentally weaker brothers will not give up the fight, but will do all in their power to gain relief.

Difficulties are the test of the man.

Hundreds of people testify daily that they had suffered years of torture and agony from stomach or kindred troubles and had tried everything before they heard of Tanlac. These people did not "give up the ship" after the first remedy failed to cure them. When they heard of the wonders that Tanlac, the new reconstructive tonic, was working, they did not lose this opportunity to be aided simply because other preparations had failed. It is this "stick-to-it-iveness" that has won happiness for thousands.

The truth of this is clearly brought out by the fact that business men, professional men, artisans and women, too, in all walks of life, whose common, practical judgment guides them in all acts and conclusions, are daily testifying to the merits of Tanlac.

Improper food, poor digestion, over eating and lack of healthful exercise have cut short the lives of thousands from the lowest to the highest in the land. Tanlac, the famous vegetable preparation, has proven invaluable for stomach troubles, which, after all, are the base of most ills. Tanlac overcomes poor digestion, restores normal appetite, brings good restful sleep, and banishes that tired, nervous feeling—in short, it restores the stomach to the habit of doing a full day's work and doing it well.

Tanlac, the ideal reconstructive tonic, is being especially introduced in Portsmouth at Fisher and Streich's, where the Tanlac Man daily explains its merits and what may be expected from its use.

Tanlac may be obtained in the following nearby towns: New Boston, E. H. Coburn; Sciotoville, Sciotoville Pharmacy; Bloomington, H. J. Gleim; Scioto, Stockham & Payne; McDermott, Ord Thompson; Lucasville, Dr. J. H. Cox; Stockdale, O. E. Emory & Co.; Jasper, J. W. Dewey; Pikeville, R. B. Wilson; Oak Hill, Jenkins Pharmacy; Otway, J. EXPLOSION IN STEEL PLANT

Workmen in the open hearth department of the Whitaker-Glessner plant had a close call from being burned Friday morning at 9 o'clock, the result of an explosion in what is known as the slag pit.

Water in some manner came in contact with the heated slag and an explosion followed. Workmen were enveloped in a sheet of steam, but no injuries were reported to the company, the officials declared Friday afternoon. The explosion, however, tore a small hole in the roof over the open hearth department and created much excitement for a short while.

Improving very rapidly. Miss Edie Wade made a trip to South Webster, Friday afternoon.

Those bedroom and dining room suites in Hansen Bros.' windows, Seel building, Second street are gradually dropping in price. When they were placed in the windows two weeks ago, Hansen Bros. priced them at $65.00, their original price. Each day since then, (Sundays excepted) they have dropped in price $1.00, and tomorrow (Saturday) they can be bought for $53.00 each. These suits always sold for $65.00, but Hansen Bros. wanted to try an experiment and hence they are dropping $1.00 in price each day. THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, June 30.—The strength and prominence of U. S. Steel and leading rails contributed to the general improvement of standard shares today, although specialties were heavy to weak.

Renewal of pressure against Mexicans and other priced specialties account for irregular trend of today's early trading.

Mexican petroleum opened with a loss of a point, this soon being undone. Industrial Alcohol, one of the unsetting features of the preceding session was the weakest issue, losing 4½ points on further moderate liquidation.

Marines which helped to stabilize yesterday's final dealings were lower on realizing sales at first rose briskly later with Union Pacific, U. S. Steel and other leaders. Elsewhere changes were mainly fractional but in the direction of higher levels.

Dealings in the forenoon gradually embraced all the better known issues, chiefly steel, Marine preferred, Union Pacific, heading and the coal division. These were firm to strong with substantial inquiry for rails in general.

Pacific and Union Pacific were foremost in this group, Canadian Banking interests are to become active in its management. Demand for other important shares intensified in later quarters. Specialties evinced a better tendency with the opening of session. Alcohol and petroleum showing almost full recovery. Bonds were irregular with a sharp rise in Marine 4½.

Realizing sales, induced in part by a revival of adverse Mexican rumors, caused recessions on 1 to 2 points in the final hour. The closing was irregular.

very interesting Burton Holmes travel pictures.

"Wild Animals at Large" or "When the Menagerie Broke Loose," Columbia Tonight.

The program at the Columbia tonight consists of two separate pictures. The first is "Wild Animals at Large" and is one of the best animal pictures ever made.

You will see a circus train wrecked and the animals escaping from the overturned cars; lions, tigers, leopards, bears, elephants, monkeys and in fact almost every species of wild animals are seen entering stores, shops and residences and throwing the people of the town into a most laughable panic. This a two reel picture and you will certainly enjoy it.

The other picture this evening is a three reel picture entitled "The Devil Within" and is a most interesting picture featuring Stuart Holmes, a prominent picture actor formerly with William Fox.

At The Exhibit

"A Broken Genius" is an American three-part drama, Edward Coxen plays the role of a struggling artist whose wife (Lizette Thorne) has little interest in anything except social frivolities, and furthermore pleads neglect as a reason for turning her affections to another man. Upon arriving at the next town with the wife of the artist the man is arrested for a crime committed some time before. Later a child is born to Karl and his wife, and after a tragic scene in which the convict escapes and dies in the home of the woman he has wronged, the husband and wife decide to start life anew. A very interesting production.

"On the Rampage", is a Cub comedy featuring George Ovey, George and Janet Sully. Jerry is a fake baron in this roaring reel.

At The Arcana

"A Huntress of Men," Red Feather drama, is an entertaining five reel offering adapted for the screen by Catherine Carr from a story by J. Vera Tyler. Mary Fuller, Joseph K. Gerard and Sidney Bracy play the leads. The former appears as a social favorite, who has her pick and choice of men. Fleming, portrayed by Mr. Gerard, is a mining man, who determines to tame her. He makes an advance so bold that she marries him at once. Then comes the clash of wills, which Miss Grant portrays the character of Nora O'Brien, a poor Irish emigrant, who on her arrival in America is rendered unconscious by a blow while searching for her brother. Upon awakening she finds herself in the presence of the Winters family, in a luxuriously furnished room. They continually call her "cousin" much to Nora's bewilderment. She finally realizes that a note she was hearing was from another Nora and addressed to a certain Winters family. She immediately protests her mistaken identity but is overruled by the doctor and the kind people about her. Time passes by; "Cousin" Nora adapts herself to her beautiful surroundings and is glad her protestations remained unheeded.

The events following are of the most interesting and thrilling character and serve to make this release one of the most absorbing of this year's photoplay productions.

Filed under the direction of Sidney Olcott on the beautiful island of Bermuda with all the advantages of its varied scenic beauties, this superb drama will be the attraction at the Lyric tonight, supplemented with a reel of those ends only after the girl learns that she really loves him. The settings are very attractive and Miss Fuller wears innumerable stunning gowns. A story of great action. A brightly pictured social study, well handled.

At The Temple

"Between Men" is a five reel Triangle Kay-Bee drama featuring William S. Hart and House Peters. White and Lewiston become rivals both in business and for the hand of Hampton's daughter. Both men are of the cool, level headed type who usually get what they go after, and it is a fight to the finish both with brains and fists. Finally White succeeds in beating Lewiston and saving the fortune of Hampton.

"Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts" is a Keystone comedy featuring Chester Conklin in a Mack Sennett production.

At The Strand

"The Purple Maze" is an example "sex" story. It deals with the lives of two girls in business, Misery in Back, Headache and Pain in Limbs.

Dear Mr. Editor—For more than a year I suffered with misery in the back, dull headache, pain in the limbs, was somewhat constipated and slept poorly at night until I was about ready to collapse. Seeing an account of the wonderful qualities of "Annie," prepared by Doctor Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., I sent for a box, and before using the whole box I feel and still feel improved. My sleep is refreshing, misery reduced, and life is not the drug it was before. I most cheerfully recommend this remedy to sufferers from like ailments.

W. A. ROBERTS, Harris Station, Ohio.

Note: You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce's "Kidney Pills" well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists of Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dizziness, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, swelling urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Annie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing Tablet, Dr. Pierce, has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

I know of one or two leading druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of "Annie" for their anxious customers in and around this locality. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Editor—Please insert this letter in some conspicuous place in your paper.

one of whom is virtuous and the other follows the easiest way. The tragedy at the close points the obvious moral. The girl who has lived her life too freely kills herself; the other girl, on the verge of following the butterfly life herself, takes warning and marries her employer. Stella Ra-zette and Gladys Brockwell do fine work as the two girls. "Her Hero Maid" is a Nestor comedy featuring Billie Rhodes and Lee Moran. The fellow-dresses as a hired girl and takes employment at his sweetheart's home. "Eleanor's Cat," is a Rex drama.

The Moss Troopers. Moss troopers was the name given to the desperate plunderers and robbers who secreted themselves throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in the "mosses" on the borders of Scotland. These outlaws were largely made up of deserters and criminals from the armies of England and the continent, and their depredations and cruelties were the terror of the region infested by them. Many severe laws were passed against them, but they were not fully extirpated until the eighteenth century.

waver in its determination to continue the protection of the border by military operations. President Wilson probably would arrange to lay the whole matter before congress immediately. It was learned today that war department legal experts construe the resolution adopted by congress and sent to the White House yesterday as granting authority to draft every enrolled member of the National Guard into the federal service whenever the president shall decide the step is necessary. The draft would apply, they believe, to all guardsmen, whether they take a new oath or not.

Under this construction the whole enrolled strength of the United States troops now upwards of 130,000 men, could be called into the federal service without delay and be used either on the border or in Mexico.

KITCHENER WILL IS RROBATED

London, June 30.—The will of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the British secretary of war who lost his life in the sinking of the cruiser, Hampshire, off the Orkneys June 5, was admitted to probate today. It shows that he left an estate valued at 171,420 pounds sterling, approximately $550,000.

The largest bequests were the sum of $20,000 to his nephew, Henry Hamilton Kitchener, and the Broome Park estate and all lands in Kent county to his nephew, Commander Henry Franklin Chaveller Kitchener, of the Royal navy, a son of the new Earl. The will makes a number of smaller bequests to relatives and friends, including 200 pounds each to several officers who served on Lord Kitchener's personal staff.

Among these was General Sir William R. Birdwood.

To Colonel Oswald A. G. Fitzgerald, Lord Kitchener's personal military secretary, who was drowned with the Field Marshal was willed all Kitchener's land in British East Africa, amounting to about five thousand acres with plantations, etc.

Swords or honor, plate and other gifts from public bodies, are devolved as heirlooms in settled estates. The will was dated November 2, 1914.

"DEATH SPOT" NO PLACE FOR A MURDER

Waukegan, Ill., June 30.—Testimony that the spot in Helm's woods where Marion Lambert died of poison was in full view of an interurban railway station and therefore never would have been selected for a deliberately planned murder, was given today by Gale M. Brooks, a civil engineer, in the trial of Will H. Orpet, charged with the murder of Miss Lambert. Brooks explained at length a map he had made of the woods.

Two Men Gave The Crew Desperate Battle

New York, June 30.—The Norwegian steamship Nor-danger, two members of the crew in irons reached here early today from Marseilles. The two men, a Mexican, and a Spaniard, armed with knives and firearms, refused to work after the vessel left Marseilles and until two days ago, when they were finally seized, fought with the crew and succeeded in destroying a large quantity of the ship's stores. The captain, ill from lack of sleep, was unable to imprison the mutineers whose hiding place, on the steamship was guarded by Confederates. Many of the crew reached New York with cuts and bruises. Once when captured and locked in the carpenter's shop aboard the vessel the mutineers set fire to a pile of shavings and escaped while the crew fought the blaze. The mutineers were turned over to the police when the vessel reached quarantine.

TELEPHONE GOT BEST OF RUNAWAY HORSE

While David Bauer, night ticket agent of the N. & W. railway, was visiting at the Isaac Hall home on the West Side, Friday morning, his horse broke away from a hitching post and ran away. Dave called up friends in the city, notifying them that his horse was speeding across the tow-path, and they stopped the runaway at the end of the Scioto bridge. No damage resulted. Dave says the horse is accustomed to standing unhitched in a stall, but said he forgot this when he fastened the animal to a post.

POST MORTEM IS HELD

County Coroner Dr. J. W. Daehler held a post-mortem examination Friday morning on the body of Charles Hill, victim of Tuesday night's shooting scrape, and expects to hold an inquest within the next day or two.

The post-mortem showed that Hill had sustained two bullet wounds. The one entered just under the right eye or at the prominence of the cheek, ranged downward and lodged on the other side of the neck. The other bullet entered the abdomen perforating the bowels and striking the edge of the liver and bladder. It could not be found.

WILL CARE FOR TROOPS' HEALTH

San Antonio, Texas, June 30.—Adequate preparations to preserve the health of troops now moving to the border practically have been completed. Hospitals, capable of caring for five hundred patients each, have been established at San Antonio and Fort Bliss. There also is a smaller base hospital at Douglas, Arizona. Arrangements have been made to establish other base hospitals at Fort Crockett, near Galveston, Eagle Pass, Laredo, and Nogales. Camp hospitals have been established all along the border.

In the army there are seven field hospital companies and seven ambulance companies. The National Guard will add to this force 22 field hospitals and 22 ambulance companies. Steps have been taken to equip all field ambulance companies with motor ambulances and each field hospital will be given a motor truck.

DEFENSE CLOSES IN THE JORDAN MURDER CASE

GEORGE JORDAN AGAIN ACCUSES FATHER OF CRIME

As early as seven-thirty o'clock Friday morning spectators took possession of the seats available in the court room Friday morning, eager to hear the testimony in the Jordan murder case. Within an hour after that, standing room could not be found. Roy Jordan, accused of murdering his wife, came into the room in custody of Sheriff E. W. Smith a few minutes before court convened and munched at an apple until the bailiff called for order.

Allen Wilkes, Lawrence county, Kentucky, was the first witness to be placed on the stand. He testified that he lived in the vicinity of the Jordan homestead in Kentucky for several years and knew of no trouble between the defendant and his wife. He claimed that Hallie Conkley and Stella Howard, state witnesses, had a bad reputation for untruthfulness.

James Walker, a minister living near Harrisonville, told of selling some nursery trees to Roy Jordan and said that he visited the home on one occasion. He claimed that their domestic relations were very good as far as he observed them.

After the examination of these two character witnesses, counsel for the defense requested Judge Thomas to allow them to introduce the testimony of Judge Thomas C. Beatty, probate court, relative to the preliminary hearing of Roy Jordan, the accused. The court granted the request and the jury was dismissed.

This testimony involved the question which was brought up Thursday afternoon when the defense attempted to introduce the testimony of Fred, aged 8, son of the accused, through Dr. Seitz. Before Judge Beatty took the stand Judge Thomas stated that he had thoroughly gone into the point of law involved concerning the presentation of the evidence desired by the defense through a "third party" Thursday evening and said that the court desired to do everything that would bring justice for the accused, and would announce his decision later.

Judge Beatty was qualified and recounted the events that led up to the children being taken into custody by his court and their subsequent certification to the "Children's Home."

"When did you place them in the home?"

"A few days after the trouble."

"Was it the week of the tragedy?"

"It was that week sometime that I placed the children in the home."

"In whose charge were they from Roy?"

"Did George hear what Fred said when you were in the room?"

"Yes, sir."

Roy Jordan, the defendant, was again placed on the stand.

"From the time you found your wife in the condition you have already described until you were arrested, did it occur to you what caused it? And while you were there did you ask little Freddie who fired the shot?"

"No, sir."

"When did you first hear what Freddie said about George doing it?"

"I read it in the papers."

"Did you at any time talk to Freddie or to the other boys about having them make a statement?"

"No, sir."

"At the time it happened, you didn't think Freddie was old enough to realize what had happened, did you?"

"Well from his looks it seems like he did. He seems to look a little like he wanted to tell me something."

"Mr. Jordan," asked the court, "when you were up at the house and your sons George and Fred were there, did you say that Fred had an expression on his face as if he wanted to tell you something?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why didn't you ask him?"

"Well, I didn't think I stayed at home over five minutes."

"Did you do anything that would stand in his way from telling you?"

"No, sir."

Here the court asked several questions relative to the time spent at the house before the boys returned.

"Then he (Freddie) did not talk to you at any time about anyone killing his mother?"

"Well, I didn't know she was murdered."

"Did Freddie tell anyone about it?"

"No, indeed."

"How long has Freddie been talking?" asked the prosecutor.

"Something like when he was two years old."

"How long has it been since he has been able to put words together and make sentences?"

"It might have been a little later. He might have been a little older."

Roy Jordan On Stand Again

The prisoner was then allowed to take his seat and Roy Jordan, Jr., was recalled.

"Now, Roy, without telling any statements that were made," said Attorney O'Neal for the defense, "while you were in custody of the jailer did little Freddie make any statement to you as to who killed your mother?"

"Yes."

"Who did he make the statement to?"

"To all of us."

"After hearing the statement what did you do?"

"I told Mr. Smith."

"Did you call anyone then?"

"Not then but afterwards, I did."

"Before he made any statement to you did you have any conversation with him?"

"No, sir."

"Did you tell George that he killed his mother?"

"Well, the little boys were talking there and I wasn't paying much attention and he told them first. Then Dr. Seitz came in and he told Dr. Seitz all about it."

"What was the statement?"

"They asked who killed his mother and he said that George did it, and he asked him what he killed her with, and he said a gun."

"It was after the inquest, was it, Roy?" asked the court.

"I don't know."

"You must remember when it was."

"Well, I think it was."

"You had gone up with the sheriff, I believe. He took you to the coroner's office at Ninth and Offutt street, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you all testify?"

"No, sir."

"Was this the first time that you knew that your father had been accused?"

"Yes, sir."

"You heard Fred say that George killed his mother, and you heard George testify that his father killed his mother, now how old is Fred?"

"Four years."

"And how old is George?"

"Eight years."

"Which one would you believe?" continued Judge Thomas.

"When a little child tells tales like that and tells them again and again, I would believe him before I would a man."

"Do you believe that George would make it up against his father?"

"I believe he would."

"Now, why would you prefer to believe the story told by the little four-year-old boy to the older boy?"

"When a little fellow tells it so many times, I would rather believe it. He is innocent."

"How did Dr. Seitz happen to come in?"

"He just came in to see us."

"Then you wanted to use Dr. Seitz as a witness?"

"Yes, sir."

"That is why you wanted him to hear what Fred said?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you say when Dr. Seitz came in?"

"I asked him if he could understand what the little boy said."

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him what he had said."

"Is it not a fact," asked Attorney O'Neal, for the defense, "that all you wanted was the truth of the matter, Roy?"

"Yes, sir."

Dr. Seitz was recalled by the defense and placed on the stand. The physician said that he came to the jail to "pay the boys a little social visit."

"Did you go there to find any evidence for the defense?"

"No, sir. I didn't go there for that purpose."

"Tell us what happened."

"I went to the jail and went into the juvenile ward. I asked them where George was, and the boys told me that he was over to the Probate Judge's office. I looked at Freddie and asked him if he knew who killed his mother, and he said 'George killed my mother,' and I asked him what he killed her with, and he said 'George killed her with a gun, and I asked him where he shot her, and he pointed to his eye, and I asked him where George got the gun and he said 'Up in the attic.' Those were just the words he used."

"Did he say that more than once while you were there?" asked Judge Thomas.

"Yes, sir. He told me, and told Judge Beatty and Sheriff Smith."

"When he accused George, what was George's conduct?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"George was crying."

"What did you next do?"

"I asked George what he was looking up for and he said, 'for killing my mother,' and I asked him how, and he said 'with a gun,' and I asked him where he got it, and he said 'up in the attic.'"

"Did George accuse him in any other manner?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"He pointed his finger at him. No George did not deny it. He cried."

"Now, Dr. Seitz, did you consider the statement spontaneous, and did it impress you as the truth?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"Yes, sir."

"Now did anyone say anything to you when you came into the room about Fred's remarks?" asked Attorney Millar for the prosecution.

"Yes, something was said, but I don't remember who it was."

"Was it Roy?"

"I don't remember; it might have been."

"Did Roy seem interested in the case?"

"No."

"Roy did not say anything at all?"

"Nothing to help in questioning Freddie."

"Did some of the other boys call your attention to it?"

"Well, it wasn't Roy; it was some other boys."

"Fred told you that George killed his mother with a gun and that he went up into the attic to get it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are you sure that he said attic?"

"Yes, I am sure that it was the word he used."

Mrs. E. W. Smith was called by the defense to testify relative to caring for the boys while confined at the jail, but she stated that she was sick the first time the boys were there. She was dismissed.

Judge Beatty Is Recalled

Judge Thomas C. Beatty was recalled. The Judge said:

"I went into the room. Little Freddie was there. He was playing on the bed with his little shoe. They were in the north juvenile room. Well, somebody remarked that Freddie said something as to who had committed the offense, and I think the sheriff asked me to go in and talk to him. I will not be positive. I asked him questions based upon what was said. I asked him the question: 'Fred, who killed your mother?' He said: 'George did it, and pointed his finger. I asked him what he killed her with, and he said a gun. I asked him where he got the gun and he said 'up in the attic.' Then while he was playing there he said: 'George, what did you kill my mother for? That was by himself.'"

"From the manner in which he made the statement, and taking his age and simplicity into consideration," said Attorney O'Neal, "what were your impressions with respect to his telling the truth?"

"Well at that time it made a very particular impression upon me. Oh! his innocence, and it was voluntary, without worry or grief."

"Did it, or did it not, appear to you that he had been coached?"

"My idea was that he could not have been coached."

"Did you have any conversation with George after the accusation of Freddie?"

"Yes."

"Where?"

"In my office the next morning. Well after talking to the little fellow the evening before, I was impressed so much that I—Well, I brought George over and talked to him in my office. I said: 'George, I am worried about the death of your mother.' He looked up and said, 'Why?' He says: 'Who do you think killed my mother?' I said, 'George, I am afraid that you killed your mother,' and he says, 'I didn't do it a purpose, and you are going to send me away.'"

"Then what did you say?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"I said, 'Why wouldn't I send you away, for I am sure that you didn't do it on purpose,' and he said, 'I didn't know it was loaded.' And I said, 'I am sure, George, you would tell me how you did it,' and he said, 'with a gun.' I asked him where he got the gun, and he said, 'up in the attic.'"

"In order to get him to tell you?" asked the Judge, "you relieved him of any apprehension of punishment first, didn't you?"

"I told him that I felt sure that if he did it, it wasn't on purpose, and I wouldn't send a little boy away for that."

On cross-examination, Attorney Millar, for the state, asked Judge Beatty if George had not made another confession before him, and the Judge replied in the affirmative. He was asked if George had not declared that his father had done it, and that he was at that time equally certain that the father had done it, and the witness stated that he was.

"Both stories were plausible."

George Jordan Accuses Father

George, the little eight-year-old son of the accused, was placed on the stand shortly before the adjournment for noon, at the behest of the court. The lad on direct testimony, claimed that his father had killed his mother and that he was in the bedroom adjoining the "chamber of death," looking out the window, when the shot was fired. The lad acknowledged that he had told Judge Thomas C. Beatty, when asked, that he had accidentally killed his mother while playing with the shot-gun.

When court convened Friday afternoon, the boy was recalled and asked several questions relative to the details of the crime. He said that he did not see his father actually kill his mother, but knew he was the only one in the room when the shot was fired.

The lad was later in the afternoon recalled by Judge Thomas and asked a direct question as to why he had told Judge Beatty that he had killed his mother, and the lad said:

"Cause I didn't want to see my father get into trouble."

Two other character witnesses were introduced by the defense, then after a five minute consultation, Attorney Theo. K. Funk announced that the defense rested.

Rebuttal Witnesses

The rebuttals were opened and the first witness called by the state was William Skaggs, with a purpose of impeaching the testimony of Roy Jordan, Jr. The question asked was held immaterial by Judge Thomas, and another question of what Roy was purported to have said to Ona Fields relative to Jim telling all he knew about the death of his mother, was held material. Roy Jordan was then called and the statement made to him. He denied, saying it and Ona Fields was summoned and claimed that he did.

The jury was instructed to consider the testimony in the nature of an impeachment and not as having any direct bearing on the case.

At press time the State called Miss Fayetta Bricker, Lucasville, to testify as to the reputation of Roy Jordan, Jr., as to veracity.

Testimony Given Late Thursday Afternoon

The attempt of the defense to introduce testimony through Dr. William Seitz concerning George Jordan's statements before Sheriff E. W. Smith, Judge Thomas C. Beatty and Dr. William Seitz and the subsequent objection of the state, marked an important point in the legal battle being waged in the local common pleas court where Roy Jordan is being tried for the murder of his wife. The jury was dismissed and the attorneys presented their views of the matter.

Dr. William Seitz was on the witness stand at the time, and the defense had attempted to adduce testimony relative to the confession of George, the eight year old son, in which the lad was alleged to have said he accidentally shot his mother while playing with the shot gun. The state objected, sustaining their contentions with a claim that the testimony would be hearsay in character.

Attorney O'Neal in an eloquent argument which extended over a period of thirty minutes cited several authorities which gave the court power to decide whether the testimony of a child of tender age could be rightfully introduced when the child could not comprehend the solemnity of an oath. The defense told of a conversation he had with Judge Thomas C. Beatty relative to the confession made by George. He said Judge Beatty told him that he was positive the lad had done it.

"Judge Beatty told me that the confession of George was spontaneous after the little baby Freddie, the three year old boy, had pointed his finger at his brother George and said: 'George killed my mamma.'"

The baby, according to the attorney, was playing on a bed when he suddenly pointed his finger at George and made the foregoing remark.

He said the same remark was made before Dr. William Seitz and that he thought the court should take the view that the little lad, unable to comprehend the awful consequence of the tragedy, in his "innocent way" would naturally say something of this sort. Citations of cases where little children of an early and impressionable age sometimes make remarks about things they had heard and seen were made by counsel. In concluding, it was asked that the court allow the defense to introduce the testimony made by Freddie and George through Dr. Seitz, Judge Beatty or other witnesses.

Attorney E. O. Millar, representing the prosecution, admitted that it was discretionary with the court whether the testimony of a child under four years of age could be admitted but said that sometimes there were material things to consider. He cited from Wharton's criminal evidence the following: "To permit a child under four years of age to be sworn and examined as a witness would be to trifle with public justice. Hence lying declarations of a child of four years have been properly held inadmissible and the admissibility of children of that age as witnesses is by the same reasoning disputed."

The state held that the confession of George which was alleged to have been brought about by little Fred's remarks: "George killed my mamma," proved that the boy had been tampered with. In sustaining the argument, the prosecution contended that Roy, the oldest son, George, Jim and Freddie attended the coroner's inquest at which George claimed that his father shot his mother and that they spent the night in the same cell. That Roy, the oldest boy, fixed up the story and had Fred to carry it out.

The defense held that the accusation came spontaneously as the witnesses could prove and the state claimed that they could produce testimony that it was not.

"Why who called the attention of the officers to little Fred's remarks?" asked Attorney Millar.

Well Roy called Sheriff Smith the next morning and told him that Fred was accusing George of the murder of his mother. They were together all night. Would it not have been possible for them to have fixed up the story?"

Judge Thomas held that the laws cited by the counsel for the defense were compiled by able jurists and well known students and said that they were applicable in many cases. The court called attention to the first impressions of a child or baby and cited as an example that children were taught at an early age to consider their environment. He said that a child would inform others that their parents were at home or in a certain room, if they were or would repeat in their baby way things they had overheard.

The court stated that if the baby, Fred, had pointed to George on the afternoon of the crime when they were questioning him about the details that he would have made a remark of this character then probably. The time elapsed between the crime and the confession, the court held, made it almost impossible for the child to have spontaneously made the remark. "The great probability is that he heard about it the night before and the court will therefore have to overrule it."

Strenuous objections were entered by the defense and Judge Thomas announced that he would consider and pass upon the question Friday morning.

Dr. Seitz Is Cross Examined

The witness, Dr. Seitz, was then submitted to the state and he was asked on cross examination:

"Dr. Seitz, could you look at the picture and tell whether the split on the top of the head was a cut or a tear?"

"Yes, sir."

"You did not see the cut but you heard the testimony of Dr. Micklethwait, Dr. Chabot, Dr. Hilling and Dr. Dehler and you heard them say that it was a smooth clean cut; now what have you to say to what it was?"

"It could have been a tear."

"Still in the face of the testimony of the physicians you would say it was a tear?"

"It could have been."

"You say that when the contents of a shot gun enters the head and comes out over here, that it will carry all of the blood and brains in a direct line with the shot?"

"It goes in the direction of the shot."

"Would it spread over the whole room in a space of five or six feet?"

"Yes, sir."

"That is all."

Dr. P. J. Kline was called to the stand on behalf of the defense. After being qualified in the preliminary questions the physician was asked:

"Within what time would you say that rigor mortis sets in?"

"Rigor mortis sets in from three hours and on. There isn't any fixed range."

"It is variable. Yes."

"Take in the case of a person who is shot and it is effective enough to blow the side of the head out, together with the brain tissue and is fired at close range?"

"It might be shorter. There is no hard and fast rule. There is a limitation."

"Say when a person is shot in that manner, could a person take hold of the head and tell whether rigor mortis had set in?"

"We have found men in the army shot while kneeling and they would be stiff." The physician explained the term, saying that it meant "stiffness in death" or when the muscles tightened and added that a person could tell providing the muscles had not been severed in the neck.

Attorney Funk took the physician's skull in his hand, described the wounds that were found on the dead woman's head and then asked the physician if he was able to say whether all of the fractures and wounds could have been caused by the discharge of a gun.

"I would like to explain that categorically. No one understands the difference between the gun wounds of today and those of my time. The bullets of today travel with extreme rapidity and pass through the head leaving a clean hole that looks as if it was drilled. When it enters the head now, it meets a soft material and there is fluid with it and as it is well known that fluid does not expand, the result is an 'explosion.'"

"Now, doctor, if a shot gun was held close to the head and discharged would it produce all of the fractures and wounds described?"

"It would produce all of the damages he speaks of."

"Now, if there was blood on the ceiling or near the corner of the room and it came down not so thick on the walls and extending over and on the head of the bed; most of it being near the ceiling and about four feet on the ceiling, what would you say with respect to the position of the parties at the time the gun was discharged?"

The course of the missile would be as the gun was pointed. And the missile would travel in a line given by the gun in pointing. If the party using the gun was lower, it would be pointed up and if the party was higher it would be pointed down."

"Now in your study and experience in medicine could you say that you could determine whether it was a cut or a tear?" referring to the incision on top of the head?"

"Yes, in a soft tissue."

"Could one familiar with this sort of work," asked the prosecutor, "determine whether it was

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

The course of the missile would be as the gun was pointed. And the missile would travel in a line given by the gun in pointing. If the party using the gun was lower, it would be pointed up and if the party was higher it would be pointed down."

"Now in your study and experience in medicine could you say that you could determine whether it was a cut or a tear?" referring to the incision on top of the head?"

"Yes, in a soft tissue."

"Could one familiar with this sort of work," asked the prosecutor, "determine whether it was

"Yes, they ought to. In a cut it is clean as a cut but a tear would be ragged and jagged. I mean a cut now that has been produced with a cutting instrument."

"Now, doctor, if it was four and a half inches from the point of entrance of the shot to a point on the lower jaw which was fractured and one of the teeth was broken off and afterwards found in the decedent's mouth, could it have been produced by a shot gun?"

"Were the front teeth intact?" asked the physician.

"They were."

"It doesn't look like the jaw would have suffered from the shot gun charge; it would not have done that much mischief."

"Do you know at what distance a gun has to be held to get powder stains?"

"We fellows down there seldom got that close together," replied the physician, referring to his experiences in the civil war as a soldier.

A discussion followed concerning the relative distances at which a gun had to be held in order to produce powder stains or "in-grained powder marks." The prosecutor described the powder burns on the face of the decedent as testified to by former witnesses and asked Dr. Kline what it would indicate.

"That it was held close to the body."

Physician Is Recalled

Dr. J. R. Hillings, Lucasville, was recalled and asked if he had ever attended Mrs. Jordan in a professional capacity. He replied in the affirmative and said he had made several trips to the Jordan home at the instigation of the accused. He testified that as far as he knew their domestic relations were pleasant. Counsel for defense asked him if in his opinion the blood and brain tissue would follow the course taken by the shot and he said:

"The shot on entering the head becomes a liquid content and not being able to expand an explosion results and the blood and brains will of course follow the least resistance."

Jerry Walker, a young man who had been in the employ of Jordan at divers times; Paris Walker, another neighbor, living in the Flat Woods near Lucasville; Robert Lyons, and Benis Walker testified as character witnesses. All asserted that as far as they knew, the accused's domestic relations were alright.

At this juncture the attorneys for the defense asked permission of the court to hold a private consultation with their client and their request was granted. After a thirty minute conference they returned and placed Roy Jordan, the accused, upon the witness stand.

Many of the spectators who had left the courtroom early in the afternoon, although the room was then crowded, to play croquet on the lawn adjoining the building, must have sensed the sudden turn taken by the defense, for every foot of available space was taken within a very few moments. The stairway leading to the entrance below had been roped off by Special Bailiff Fred Baker.

The prisoner nervously took the stand and pulled a soiled red bandanna handkerchief from his pocket and mopped the perspiration from his face. And then answered the preliminary questions.

"When were you married?"

"In Lawrence county in about 1898 or '97. About seventeen years ago."

"What was your wife's name?"

"Poster."

"When did you come to Ohio?"

"Four years ago in March."

Again he reached into his pocket and pulled forth the handkerchief.

"What are your children's names?"

"Fred, George, Jim and Roy."

"On the second day of May this year what were you doing?"

"How's that, as he leaned forward in the chair and put his left hand to his ear, 'what was I doing? I didn't do any work.'"

"Oh, that is right. Were your children and wife home then?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where did you sleep the night before?"

"In the west room."

"Did you sleep on the bed?"

"You see, the slats were busted and I slept on the floor."

"Who else was there?"

"Let's see, Roy and George. Yes, Roy and George."

"Where did Jim sleep?"

"He slept with his ma in the next room."

"Getting breakfast."

"When did the children get up?"

"Roy and Jim got up after I got up."

"How long was it until you had breakfast ready?"

"Not very long."

"Did you go out of the house before?"

"No, sir."

"What time was it?"

"I don't know, I will just have to guess; it was about six o'clock."

"Who ate with you?"

"The two biggest boys, my wife and myself."

"Did she say she was sick?"

"Yes."

"When you were through what occurred?"

"I told Roy to go up and cut some poles and we would fix that gap. Three poles to a panel and that would make twelve poles the way I figured it and so I says 'You go up and cut the poles, Roy, and I'll milk while you are cutting the poles.' She said she would milk and I told her before the boys that she was not able to milk and that I would. The boys started out after the poles. It wasn't very long until I left. I went to the barn."

"Now before you went do you remember anything about a conversation between you three at the east side of the house?"

"No, sir. Indeed not."

"There wasn't any talk about anything?"

"No, sir."

"You know what that man Morris testified to about seeing you from the road?"

"I do."

"Could you see say from a point where he said he was?"

"Well, due south he could."

"Ever have any trouble with Morris?"

"Well, I wouldn't call it trouble, I had a few short words with him."

"Did you ever have any trouble with him?"

"I mean."

"He didn't treat my little boys right."

"Did you ask Jim to help Roy that morning?"

"I don't remember of speaking to Jim that day."

"Did you see the boys after they started to the hill from the barn?"

"Well, I started and was down by the chicken house and the boys were making the turn at the gate."

"What did you do there?"

"I went to milk."

"How many cows have you?"

"Two."

"Now tell the jury what happened."

"Well I got to the milkin' gap and a cow had a calf and was standin' there and I turned her through so the heifer would stand. I went something like a quarter of a mile to get the heifer for when the heifer was there the cow would stand. I drove her to the barn and milked two cows and then turned them in the field and got the milk and started to the house."

"How long did it take you to do this?"

"You can decide on that. I don't know."

"What occurred, if anything, on your way back to the house?"

"Heard Roy Yell."

"Mother Is Dead"

"Well, as I got near the house, George hollered and said ma was dead. He opened the door and said: 'You know poor old ma is dead.' I started runnin'. I thought she had fainted."

"Where did you see George?"

"Seen him in the door; the kitchen door."

"What did you observe when you got there?"

"Fred and George."

"And your wife's dead body?"

"Yes, sir."

"Could you guess what time it was?"

"Seven or half after seven."

"What else?"

"Well, I got to the middle door and seen blood and know'd she was dead."

"Where was your wife's body?"

"She was lying on the floor with her head on the bed."

"What part of the bed?"

"Toward the foot."

"Where was the head with reference to the railing?"

"Yes, sir. The tick was hanging over something like two or three inches over the railing and her head was something like two-thirds over the railing."

"Where was her hands?"

"One was up something like this, and the witness reached his right arm about his head."

"What way was the face? In what direction?"

"Toward the east."

"Where was her feet?"

"Her feet was something like four feet out from the bed toward the kitchen door."

"What did you do then, if any thing?"

"I went to her and I said 'George what caused this,' and George said—"

The state objected, claiming that it was hearsay evidence and their objection was sustained.

Continuing the witness said: "I pulled her off the bed and laid her on the floor. I remember that I took hold of her and pulled her back to look at her."

"What was the condition of your mind?"

"I was excited."

"After you took hold of her what did you do next?"

"I told George to go after somebody."

"Did he go?"

"Yes."

"Do you know where he went?"

"No, sir."

"How long did you remain after George left?"

"Just a short time."

"Where did you go?"

"After the boys on the hill. I went up the branch."

"Did you holler?"

"Yes, sir, and Roy hollered the answer."

"Did you holler loud?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you do then?"

"Went back to the house."

"Was George there?"

"No, sir."

"Did you remain in the house until the boys came?"

"Yes."

"How did they come in?"

"They both came in together."

"Where were you then?"

"In the room where my wife was."

"Was there anything said to Jim at this time?"

"If I spoke Jim's name that day, I don't remember."

"You heard him testify that you killed his mother and that you would give the world if you hadn't done it? Is that so?"

"No, indeed."

"Was there any conversation on the east side of the house?"

"That is as rotten as can be. There isn't a word so."

"What did you do with your wife's body?"

"Laid it on the bed."

"In what position?"

"With the head west and the feet east."

"Who put her there?"

"Myself and two biggest boys. I had hold of her feet with my hand under her back; Roy had her shoulders like and Jim at the head like. At this juncture, the witness arose, pulled off his coat, loosened his shirt about the neck and nervously rubbed his face with his hands."

"Who took the apron off?"

"I took it off."

"How did you take it off?"

"She was layin' on her back like and I asked Roy to give me his knife and I cut the apron strings and just stripped the apron off."

"What did you do that for?"

"I didn't care for to put her in the bed with the apron on."

"What did you do with the apron?"

"I took it in the back room."

The witness began to cough and would frequently clear his throat. His throat bothered him considerably. Finally he unbuttoned his shirt to his belt and fanned his breast with a big palm leaf fan.

"What was on the apron? You said blood I believe?"

"There was old blood and some brains lying to one side and I lifted the corner of the apron and rolled the brains upon the apron."

"Did this all occur before Mrs. Skaggs and Smith arrived?"

"Yes."

"How long before?"

"It wasn't but a short time."

"Before they came, did you see Mrs. Skaggs and Smith and where?"

"I met them at the barn."

"Why did you go to the barn?"

"Well, Roy had gone to Mr. Walker's and I went to the barn to see if he rode over."

"Did you come back with them?"

"I come back behind about forty or fifty yards."

Showing Them The Dead Woman

"I went and told them what George told me and went into the room and showed them."

There was some evidence to show that your wife's hands were across her breast. Do you know how they got there?"

"Yes, sir, I do."

"Tell us how?"

"I felt her hand to see if she was cold and it was beginnin' to get a little cold. It wasn't warm nor cold and I put 'em there."

The prisoner took the shot gun at the behest of counsel; broke the breach across his knee, took the shell out, examined it and identified it.

"Do you know where the gun was kept?"

"Well it was kept in the left most of the time. I never shot the old gun but once in my life and that was about a month after I got it."

N. C. Williams, who testified that he had purchased the Roy Jordan farm in Kentucky stated that the home life of the defendant was pleasant as far as he knew.

"Did you not tell Romo Arthur, deputy sheriff of this county, questioned the prosecutor of cross examination, 'that a few days after the little baby had died in Kentucky that you met Jordan on a road and Roy was abusing his wife when she was on her way to the cemetery?'

"No, sir, I did not."

"Where is Rome? Stand up Rome." The officer stood up.

"Now you would make such a statement before the officer?"

"I believe I told 'him' that I talked with Mr. Jordan about his wife puttin' a quilt over the grave."

"You did not tell him the other?"

"I did."

Lewis Savage, another character witness, testified that Hallic Conksley and Stella Howard, two witnesses for the state, had "bad reputations."

The defense announced at 5:50 o'clock that they had but little else to offer and said they would have nothing to offer until the court ruled on the question of a third party being allowed to tell what Freddie said. Judge Thomas stated that he would announce his decision Friday morning when court convened at eight o'clock. Court adjourned.

KILL MY WIFE

"I'll tell you and face the world, men, that I had no idea until I heard what the little baby told George. I couldn't."

"How did you treat your wife?"

"I was better to my wife than I was to my little baby."

"Did you love your wife?"

"I did."

On cross examination the witness was asked a rapid fire line of questions relative to the number of children, time of marriage and places of residence.

"When did the last child die?"

"About five years ago."

"What was wrong?"

"Spinal trouble."

"What caused it?"

"I don't know."

"How old was the one that died?"

"Something like one year old."

"Ever been arrested for wife beating?"

"I was arrested. But let me explain, I—"

Counsel for defense objected and the prosecution asked:

"Didn't you make an affidavit before Mr. Savage here that you wouldn't beat her anymore?"

"I'll tell you." There was several sharp retorts made by the attorneys and the answer was passed.

"Didn't you hit her a few times? You heard the testimony of Mr. Howard. Was his testimony true?"

"No."

"Did you hit her in the closet?"

"No, indeed. I fell against her. I climbed off and fell against her and she said 'Roy did it hurt you and I said no it didn't but 'did it hurt you and we went back to the house together.'"

"Where was your wife when you went to the barn?"

"In the kitchen door."

"Did you hear the firing of a gun?"

"I did not."

Another description of how he found his wife's body was given at the request of the state.

"Why did you lay your wife on the floor?" asked the prosecutor.

"To take the quilt off the bed."

"Where was the blue shirt you say the officers found?"

"Back in the room."

The prosecuting attorney unrolled a faded and ragged blue shirt from a bundle and presented it to the witness.

"Is that your shirt?"

"I guess it is."

The witness said he had given his wife the shirt when he took it off and it was in the west room as far as he knew.

"How do you account for the blood on it?"

"I don't know who put it there. I don't know."

"Who arrested you first?"

"The coroner came out and he put me under arrest."

"And when was this?"

"In the morning."

"Wasn't there two men in charge of you?"

"I don't think so."

The prosecutor then handed the prisoner a slip of paper and said:

"Where did you get that prescription? Who gave it to you?"

"Dr. Kelling."

"When?"

"On the night of the 24th of April."

"Who was it for?"

"He gave it to me for my wife."

"How does it come that you were carrying it around in your pocket?"

The prisoner then told of the delicate condition his wife was in and the day following, he says, she was somewhat better. "And I didn't think it was necessary to get the medicine."

"Oh, by the way," said Attorney Funk, after the witness had related again some of the incidents he had testified to before for the benefit of the state, "do you wear your shirt wrong side out; the blood stains happen to be on the wrong side?"

"Sometimes I put it on any way."

Jordan's hands were trembling as he left the stand and his shirt was wet with perspiration.

N. C. Williams, who testified that he had purchased the Roy Jordan farm in Kentucky stated that the home life of the defendant was pleasant as far as he knew.

"Did you not tell Romo Ar-

It sounds rather ridiculous and in fact it is surprising indeed to have a sale of such seasonable merchandise at the extreme height of the season for which the buying public would surely not hesitate in the least to pay full prices, but here is the story in a nutshell, the unfavorable weather heretofore being against summer wearing apparel caused quite a congestion on such stocks, such as Wash Skirts, Wash Dresses, etc., and we are very anxious to dispose of them while we have a chance and while the demand for them is large.

SOCIETY

Miss Edna Haley and William Nolan, married in Chillicothe Wednesday, have many friends in Portsmouth. Following is an account of the wedding given by the Scioto Gazette of Chillicothe:

"At nine o'clock Wednesday morning the wedding of Miss Edna Gertrude Haley to Mr. William Bernard Nolan took place at St. Mary's church, Rev. Father Halpin officiating. The church was attractively decorated with lilies, palms and hydrangeas. As Miss Katherine Herlihy played the Lohengrin wedding march, the bridal party entered. The lovely blonde bride was very beautiful in her gown of whiteorgette crepe, built over tulle. Her white tulle veil fell in graceful folds to the hem of her dress. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses. Miss Loretta Johnson, of Portsmouth, the bridesmaid, was charming in greenorgette crepe over green tulle. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with pink rosebuds and carried pink roses. Mr. J. A. Holzbach, of Pittsburg, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Arthur Haley, brother of the bride, and Mr. Russell Haley, of Portsmouth. A delicious breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Leona Haley, on East Second street, following the ceremony. The bride presented her maid with a gold brooch, and the groom gave his assistants gold tie clasps. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan left at noon amid a shower of rice, for Cleveland, from where they will take a trip to the Thousand Islands, up the St. Lawrence and back home via Pittsburg, where they will visit relatives. For going away the bride wore a becoming suit of blue tulle, with chic white hat. She is a charming young woman, fair of face and of sunny disposition. She was formerly a teacher in the schools at Kingston, but has spent the past winter at home. Mr. Nolan is a well-known and well-liked young man, the son of Mrs. J. Harper, of this city. He has a responsible position as foreman at the B. & O. shops. Upon their return he will take his bride to a newly furnished home on North Sugar street, where the sincere best wishes of their many friends will attend them. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Julius Johnson, Miss Loretta Johnson, Mr. J. E. Simon, grandfather of the bride, Miss Josephine Simon, Mr. Russell Haley, all of Portsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Holzbach and children, Norman and Mary, of Crestline, O.; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McCarthy, of Port Wayne, Ind.; Mrs. G. A. Schmitt, Mr. J. A. Holzbach, of Pittsburg; Misses Jeannine Dungan and Elizabeth McKenzie, of Circleville."

Miss Katherine Steinman, of Cincinnati, arrived yesterday to visit Miss Florence Daehler.

Miss Helen Dillon will entertain a few of her young friends tomorrow afternoon for the pleasure of Miss Sara Heinrich, of Martin's Ferry, sister of Mrs. E. Anger Powell.

CHILD'S FOREHEAD ROUGH AND SCALY

Kept Spreading Into Hair. Itched a Great Deal. Hair Fell Out and Head Looked Badly.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When my little brother's trouble began it looked rough and scaly and we thought at first it was just a skin rash, but it kept spreading into his hair and was very red. It itched a great deal which caused him to scratch and he was very cross and would often lie awake nights. His hair fell out and his head looked very badly."

"We had him treated but it seemed to make him worse. He had the trouble about four months when I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and afterwards bought more. We used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment according to directions and in about two weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Van Doren, R. F. D. 1, Camanche, Iowa, July 22, 1915.

JOHN H. CULHAN, Manager.

Delightful, indeed, was the social session held at the home of Mrs. George Sperry, Jr., 1644 Sixth street, Thursday evening, under the auspices of Section Three, First Christian church. About thirty persons were present and the evening passed away all too swiftly. Mrs. Sperry was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. E. W. Sheridan. At the close of the business session refreshments consisting of sandwiches, Nabiscoes and ice tea were served. The section realized handsomely in a financial way and will have quite a nice amount to pay on their Christmas club. Rev. and Mrs. Oakley and baby daughter, Rosaline, were the guests of honor.

The Patriotic Musicals given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spencer, for the benefit of the Esther Circle of the Second Presbyterian church, was a delightful success. The enjoyable program was given as recently published in The Times. Miss Louise Stahler came down from Waverly and rendered beautiful vocal numbers. The rooms were beautifully decorated in flags and hydrangeas blossoms and the porch and lawn were strung with Japanese lanterns. Ice cream and cake were served to about one hundred people.

George Pearce and David Williams were the committee in charge of an enjoyable dance given last evening in Richardson's hall, where there were twenty couples present. Davison's Orchestra rendered the dance music until two o'clock. Fruit neater was served during the evening. Among the guests were Miss Garnet Sowards, of Greenup, Ky., guest of Miss Mary Varner, Misses Eleanor Biggs, Phoebe Jane Lutz, Alberto Woodham, Anna Womack, Messrs. Cole, Crawford and Lawson, all of Greenup, Ky., and Miss Katherine Clare, of Toledo, guest of Mrs. J. F. Brushart.

Mr. D. L. Morgan, of Oak Hill, is the guest of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. J. Morgan, on Glover street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peebles, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peebles and guest, Miss Maria Bell, of Covington, Ky., dined at the Baker House in Wheelersburg this evening.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, O. Office Phone 61.

usually the spot will disappear. If you will be careful to apply the acid only to the ink spot on your skirt, I do not think it will take out the color. If it does, the ammonia water will probably restore it. Any good cream rubbed well into the skin, and coated with powder is good to prevent tan and sunburn. If your skin is very dry, you could use one of the creams containing grease or oils otherwise stick to the greaseless variety.

Dear Miss Wise—Can you tell me who owned the first automobile in Portsmouth? TIMES READER.

The honor of owning the first automobile in Portsmouth goes to Mr. R. Stanley Prichard. His first car was a Lane Steamer, which he brought here about May 1, 1901.

Dear Miss Wise—How can I make a fluffy tall evening dress stand out? I see so many that stand out, but mine seems to hang straight. I know the ones that flare do not have hoops on. I want so much to know about this. And, Dolly, do you think net would make a pretty afternoon party dress, or would tulle or Georgette crepe be nicer? Thinking you in advance for any suggestions you may give. M. D.

To make your tulle evening dress flare out, get a petticoat of chiffon, or net, and use tubular feather-bone to run through tucks. Have about two or three tucks about six inches apart near the bottom of the skirt. This will give the proper buoyancy to your skirts. Net will make a lovely afternoon gown, as would the corsette or tulle, but it is being used more, and has a beautiful look appearance. It could be trimmed in folds of white tulle.

Dear Miss Wise—To settle an argument, will you please state whether swimming will reduce or develop the body? GRACE.

Swimming, like any other beneficial and strenuous exercise, will reduce the superfluous fat from the fat woman and build up the thin woman, gradually bringing the body to normal proportions as nature intended.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young lady and have a small mole on my neck. It gives me quite a bit of annoyance, as people laugh and tease me about it. Now if you could tell me some way to take it off I would appreciate it very much. ALMA.

There are many different acids on the market for that purpose, but I would advise you not to use anything of the kind without first consulting a specialist. I have heard iodine would remove moles, but I would not worry about such a small one. I'd leave it as it is. It probably isn't noticed half as much as you think it is.

Raspberry Ice Cream—Materials—Two cups raspberries, 2 cups cream, 1 cup milk, 1-2 cups sugar, ice and salt enough for freezing. Utensils—Strainer, two measuring cups, small saucepan, ice cream freezer. Directions—Wash the raspberries and mash them through fine strainer, so that no seeds go through. Put the milk and sugar over fire in a small saucepan and bring to boil; set aside to cool. When cold, pour into the freezer, which has been packed with alternate layers of ice and salt. Pour in the cream and last the raspberry juice; cover and begin to turn, adding ice and salt as it is needed; it will take eight to ten minutes to freeze; then remove dasher and push with ice and salt and the wet bag in which the ice was broken. Be liberal with the salt. This amount fills eight ice cream glasses.

A Mammoth Store Wide Stock Reduction on Spring and Summer Merchandise at Cost and Less!

Selling throughout Spring and early Summer was heavy but not heavy enough to close out stocks. In fact we kept stocks in such satisfactory condition until the very last moment that now the over-stock is greater than in any former season-end clearance. We must sell this surplus and sell it immediately, it being the unfailing policy here never to carry goods from season to season.

Now as but two weeks are allowed for the distribution of this surplus we price all things so low that they will be wanted instantly by those who appreciate the economy in buying hurriedly.

We feel that nothing so forcefully represents the savings as the simple but truthful statement that prices now are lower than in any previous clearance when there was no European war to disturb conditions. Values in the 1916 July Clearance are the best presented in our 43 years of storekeeping. They are extraordinary and plentiful, existing in good numbers in all departments.

WHEN GOV. FRANK B. WILLIS SPOKE IN GREENLAWN CEMETERY

That the Union Memorial Day exercises in Greenlawn cemetery last Sunday were an ideal success is shown in the above picture, the crowd being one of the largest that has ever been in the "Silent City". The impressive exercises, which marked the commemoration of the departed members of sixteen fraternal organizations were featured by a splendid address, delivered by Governor Frank B. Willis.

TENSION ALONG BORDER RELAXES; NEGRO TROOPERS HAIL CAPTAIN AS ONE RETURNED FROM THE DEAD

El Paso, Texas, June 30—Tension which had prevailed on the border since the Carrizal encounter, relaxed perceptibly today as a result of the safe return to American soil of the twenty-three troopers of the Tenth cavalry and the American scout, taken prisoner in the engagement.

Stories told by the soldiers that they had suffered no ill-treatment at the hands of the troops of the defunct Mexican government and that every effort had been made to control violence manifested by the inflamed civil population at Villa Ahumada and Chihuahua City.

where the prisoners were stoned and jeered, had marked effect here.

In official circles in Juarez, the Mexican city across the Rio Grande, news dispatches that the return of negro soldiers had averted the possibility of immediate retaliatory steps by the United States were received with obvious satisfaction. Andres Garcia, Mexican consul at El Paso, expressed the belief that the first step looking toward a peaceful solution of the border problem had been taken and that others would follow shortly.

At the request of General George Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, Mr. Garcia today made preliminary arrangements for the return, at the expense of the American government to the United States, for burial of the bodies of the American soldiers killed at Carrizal. No accurate figures on the dead are available, but the missing number is fifteen, and it is believed all were killed.

At the Fort Bliss hospital, where the twenty-three troopers, who were brought from Chihuahua, are being held, it was stated that it will be held several days before it can be determined whether the soldiers contracted any of the diseases prevalent in some districts in Northern Mexico, and before they can be returned to their troops.

When Captain Lewis S. Morey, of the Tenth cavalry, visited his troopers in the Fort Bliss barracks last night, they hailed him as one from the dead, having believed he could not survive the wounds which he sustained at Carrizal.

Captain Morey chatted with the negro cavalrymen for half an hour. Twenty-three watermelons, the gift of a local commission merchant, were awaiting the 23 negro troopers when they arrived at Fort Bliss.

"Oh, boy, you don't know how good this tastes after those Mexican frijoles," one of the twenty-three exclaimed, as he sank his teeth into a piece of melon.

General Francisco Gonzales, commanding the Juarez garrison, announced he expected to receive the arms, horses and equipment of the negro troopers from Chihuahua today and that he would turn them over immediately to General Bell.

Reports from points west along the border reaching El Paso today indicated a considerable anti-Mexican feeling as a result of numerous forays from the Mexican side, upon isolated ranches, culminating in the murder of William Parker and his young wife at their ranch southwest of Hachita, N. M.

Several persons of Mexican origin have complained to civil and military authorities that they had been mistreated by posers of cowboys in that vicinity.

Every preparation had been made today for the arrival of the national guard organizations ordered to El Paso and it was expected that the first of these troops would reach here some time tomorrow.

The rampus over brick being used in paving, which was thought settled several weeks ago, took a new turn Thursday, when Brick Inspector Elmer Oakes was told by W. T. Harr and Fred Essman that he was no longer needed. Harr and Essman are members of the street committee. John Emmert, chairman of the street committee, and Oscar Cornburn, Sr., councilman, gave orders for Oakes to stay on the job. Harr and Essman claimed Oakes was throwing out too many bricks, that were not bad brick. The matter will be brought up at council meeting Monday evening. Oakes is still on the job.

Then a scuffle began. Officer Martin Hall thought the two men were fighting when he first noticed the officer and his prisoner. Hodge was turned over to Hall. He was behind the bars Friday noon.

FORECAST

Dams One, Two, Three and Four, Ohio River up.
Unsettled over upper Ohio valley tonight and Saturday; probably showers northern portion. River at Portsmouth will fall slowly.

F. B. WINTER,
River Observer.

The Ohio river was 16.7 ft. and falling here Friday morning. Saturday's packet departures: Str. Mildred Runyon down for Rome at 2 p. m.; Str. Courier up for Pomeroy at 2 p. m.; Str. Greyhound for Huntington at 3 p. m. Reports have it that the steamer Greenland will soon be put in the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh trade.

Purser David Scatterday resumed his duties on the steamer Greendale Thursday after a two weeks' illness.

The launch Highball, owned by W. S. Washington, of Huntington, W. Va., made a splendid trial trip Tuesday and cleared for a cruise down the river. The yacht was built in Cincinnati, is a sea-going motor propelled vessel, 32 feet long, 8 foot beam and is expected to make 12 miles per hour.

The Gallipolis Daily Tribune has the following river items of local interest:

"The Klondike withdrew from the Gallipolis and Syracuse trade Sunday evening after running five days. This is another local trade that has passed. Capt. Elmer Varian, owner of the Klondike, did not find enough business by considerable in the trade to justify operating the Klondike longer. The packet is laid up at Pt. Pleasant and is for sale.

"Active operations in the construction of Lock and Dam No. 24 at Racine will commence as soon as the river falls a few feet more. A force of men are engaged in preliminary work. The Sheridan & Kirk Contracting company has this contract, also the contract for the new lock and dam under construction just below Portsmouth. This company has the reputation of doing most excellent work in the line of river improvements. Mr. Hanson Williams, a former Gallipolis boy and very clever gentleman, is superintendent of the work going on at Racine. A government man is also located there on the job. The equipment of the Sheridan & Kirk company is one of the largest and most complete to be found on the western rivers.

"We have heard from what purports to be a reliable source, that Commodore F. A. Laidley, manager of the Louisville & Cincinnati Packet company and owner of the controlling stock in the line, desires to sell out (incidentally a hard job if you get your price) and retire from the business. Commodore Laidley is well up in years but he has made good at the steamboat game. He has the finest and best kept up line of packet boats on the Ohio river and his boats are money makers on the best piece of inland waterways to be found in this country with the exception of the Hudson river."

The Flax Plant. Linen is obtained from the flax plant, a small, delicate annual with a tiny blue flower. The plant is pulled by hand in the summer, the seeds, known in commerce as flaxseed, being removed and the straw subjected to various processes to separate the fibrous part which constitutes the linen. First it is steeped in water and then passed through a drying and heating process on revolving wheels until all foreign matter is removed. It is then ready for manufacture.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING ON SHANTYBOAT DEAD

CHARLES H. HILL DIES AT CITY HOSPITAL; GUN USER STILL FREE

Charles H. Hill, the new C. & O. Northern bridge riveter, who was shot through the neck and abdomen during a struggle on his shantyboat at Sciotoville Wednesday evening with a man supposed to be Grover "Red" Kennedy, died at Hempstead hospital Thursday night at 10:30 o'clock. Hill's body was turned over to County Undertaker John Dice to be prepared for burial. At the sheriff's office Friday morning it was stated lines were out looking to the apprehension of Kennedy, who is said to have leaped into a skiff and escaped to the Kentucky side immediately after the shooting. Hill's wife, Mrs. Eureka May Price, whom he in an ante-mortem statement blamed for all the trouble, accusing her of having been intimate with Kennedy and of having surprised them together in a bedroom of the boat, visited him at different times during the day, but was not present when he expired. The woman, in cleaning up the boat and removing evidences of the desperate struggle, Thursday found one of her husband's teeth on the floor. It had been shot out of his jaw when the second bullet was fired through his face and mouth. She wrapped up the molar in a handkerchief and carried it around all day exhibiting it to various persons. Kennedy, according to reports around Sciotoville, met a boy named Art Goodman, living on the river bank, near the Sciotoville car line, the day before the tragedy and told him that there had been trouble on Hill's boat Tuesday night and said to him that there would be some more Wednesday night.

Fare Registers Are Placed On Local Cars

The cars of the Portsmouth Street Railroad and Light Company are being equipped with the very latest device for registering and recording the fares paid by passengers. The passenger upon entering the car fare sees his fare indicated by a dial and pointer immediately in front of him, while the conductor with a deft twist of the wrist and a pull registers the fare on the register itself, which is placed in the front end of the car and resembles the cash registers used by merchants. Three representatives of the Ohio Fare Register Company, of Dayton, O., are in the city installing the registers and instructing the conductors in their operation as well as installing the necessary accounting system in the office of the local company. The Ohio Fare Register not only indicates the character of the fare paid, but it prints a record of the day's business on the car, showing how many fares of each of the seven kinds were registered on each half trip. The printed register record shows also the hour and minute each trip is begun and the number of the conductor who was in charge. It gives the number of the trip, the total number of fares collected, in addition to the classification of the fares.

"DON'T CRY MAMMA" SAID LITTLE BILLIE BRUSHART WHEN HIT BY AN AUTO

"Don't cry, mamma," said little Billie Brushart, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brushart, when he was carried to the doctor's office to have his injuries dressed, after he had been struck by the J. L. Watkins touring car and dragged, about seven o'clock Thursday evening, the accident taking place on Glover street near Fifth street.

Mrs. Brushart and son were on their way to Millbrook park and were walking north on Glover. Billie had crossed the street and was calling for his mother to come across the street. She called for him to come back to her. After walking a short distance on the opposite side of the street the lad suddenly started back to his mother. The Watkins machine, occupied by Leigh, Jr., and Kearns Watkins, and driven by Leigh, Jr., was going north on Glover street and struck the boy, who was knocked down and dragged a short distance.

The mother picked the lad up and carried him to Dr. W. A. Braunlin's office on Ninth street, where a close examination of his injuries was made. He had a gash over his left eye that required several stitches to close, a gash on the left side of the back of his head, both knees bruised and lacerated, and bruises on the hip and under the chin. The left eye was also bruised and badly inflamed.

Mr. Brushart, who represents the Joseph G. Reed Company, was in Huntington, W. Va., at the time of the accident. He arrived home Friday morning. Billie was reported resting easy Friday morning.

have a world-wide reputation for durability for the following reasons:

- 1st: Michelin Red-Rubber Tubes are compounded of certain quality-giving ingredients which prevent them from becoming brittle or porous and which preserve their velvety softness indefinitely.
- 2nd: Michelin Tubes are not simply pieces of straight tubing with their ends cemented, but are formed on a ring mandrel to exactly the circular shape of the inside of the casing itself and consequently fit perfectly.

BOY HIT BY AUTO, IS SLIGHTLY HURT

David Heller, 9-year-old son of Mrs. Nancy Holley, of Harrisonville avenue, New Boston, was struck and knocked to the paved street by Ira Fenner's Ford touring car, about eight o'clock Friday morning, on Harrisonville avenue, north of Oak street, New Boston.

Fenner was on his way to Harrisonville and the boy, it is claimed, ran in front of the machine. When he suddenly darted across the street, Fenner sent his car onto the side walk to keep from hitting the boy, but the lad was not in the clear and received a glancing blow, the force being enough to knock him down. He was only shaken up and bruised.

BACK IN THE FOLD

Ah, and now we have it, right off the bat. The heroic band of Progressives, the last of the old guard who fit, bled and died—politically speaking—beneath the blood red banner of Teddyism, were saved upon the last great day. They perched themselves upon the coat tails of their gallant leader and they sailed, with him, right back into the ranks of the dear old party which they left in haste four years ago. In the days to come they will sit in back cloth and ashes and repent at leisure over the ashes of the Bull Moose. But we don't blame 'em. Far from it. They had a glorious time, no doubt, insuring. They are going back where they belong, because they remained blinded to the true light and would not, or could not, let the scales fall from their eyes.

So, we wish 'em good luck and a warm reception. May they get a seat at the first table of the local G. O. P., and not have to eat in the kitchen with the camp followers. And here is the formal manner in which the Scioto County Bull Moose Old Guard laid the Moose to rest and grabbed hold of the tail of the Elephant:

June 26th, '16.

Mr. Harry E. Taylor, Editor, Times.

Dear Harry:
We notice the anxiety expressed in today's paper as to whether we are lined up for Hughes. We believe that there is an anxiety of this sort afflicting the Democratic party all over the country, and as we have many friends in that party, we hasten to relieve them and state, that we are lined up for Hughes and think all Progressives are in the same boat. With kindest regards to you and Vallee.

Sincerely yours,

JNO. G. REILLY,
PHIL M. STREICH,
J. A. SALMON.

Huntington is fighting the dust nuisance by oiling her downtown business streets and doing away with the water wagon. In other respects we are to understand, of course, that our neighbor still rides on the front seat of the water wagon.

Paul Bagby, young son of Mr. Walter Bagby, gives promise of becoming a cartoonist of real merit one of these days. We have before us a sketch he made of Teddy leading, or rather trying to lead, an elephant and a moose, under the heading, "Can He Make Them Pull Together?" The idea is good and the drawing exceptionally good, considering the youth of the artist. Here's good luck to Paul. We hope some day when he gets through school that he will be with us on The Times.

And now that the last of the Old Guard of the Bull Moose of Scioto county has followed Teddy back into the Republican party we suppose that they are also prepared to join his legion and follow him in his dash to the Mexican border, as per plans announced last evening. Let us have another declaration of principles from John and Phil and J. H. S.

Jackson is to have a big centennial celebration early in July. Let us hope that the occasion will not be marred as was the Fall Festival last year by the sure thing men and the painted dancers who disported themselves upon the court house steps as per a court document recently quoted in The Times.

Editor Williams, of the Jackson Standard-Journal, is getting to be an expansionist. He says that we ought to capture Mexico and keep her and then gobble up the rest of the continent for good measure. "There ought to be only one flag on this continent, according to Mr. Williams. But what about the other nations? What have they to say about such a programme? And what of our own boasts of scrupulous observance of the rights of other nations?"

An East End citizen called up and remarked in an unexcited sort of way that he thought the mayor ought to also take a few minutes time some day and educate the drivers of his police patrol into the mysteries of the traffic ordinance. This citizen seemed to object as strongly to being run down by a police wagon on the wrong side of the street as by an ordinary automobile.

Frank Monnett has decided that he does not want to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, and so he has pulled his name off the primary ballot. It does not matter. He wouldn't have been very far from home when the votes were counted out.

The Ohio National Guard may be a little slow in mobilizing at Columbus but it is a whole lot better to be a few days behind than to rush the boys into an unsanitary camp and expose them to fever and disease. If there is to be any fighting we are quite sure there won't be any slowness about the Ohio soldiers.

It comes easy for Colonel Roosevelt to say that he will even appear on the same platform with Taft to show his new-found zeal for Hughes, but what about Taft? Hasn't he any feelings to be considered?

The worst suggestion we have heard is that Mr. Roosevelt should take Mr. Hughes' place on the supreme bench.—Chicago Evening Post.

THE MARTYR'S CROWN

There will be quite a different atmosphere down on the river front next spring when the rains descend and the old river man lifts up his head and begins to utter lugubrious sounds about the "snow in the mountains." With the new flood wall completed it will take the highest floods to do any damage or make people move.

One thing about that detour road around the Wheelersburg paying is that a mighty lot of people will get to appreciate the beauty of the surroundings in that well kept and prosperous farming neighborhood known as Dogwood Ridge.

We wonder how many of you read the Bed Time Tales that appear daily on this page. If you do not read them you are missing some genuinely interesting stories. They are delightful for young and old alike. Try it for a week and see if you do not agree with us.

In plans for motorization of the fire department it would not be amiss to see what could be done towards motorizing the steamers now in use. New York has successfully tried putting her steamers on trucks, and she finds it a mighty useful thing to have done. The cost would not be great and the benefit might be incalculable.

Talk about the superstition of the dark ages. At Shelbyville, Illinois, a boy disappeared Saturday, and a fortune teller has been applied to, to reveal his whereabouts, not as an individual bit of credulity, but as a community effort.

Some people are lucky in getting free advertising. Chicago capitalists subscribed a goodly sum to buy certain kinds of armament for the state militia, but the federal government declined it on the ground that it already had down on the Mexican border all that sort of material that would possibly be of use.

In looking over some of our county exchanges we wonder how there can be such good papers and looking over others we wonder how there can be such poor ones.

Roosevelt has offered to raise a regiment. We were surprised, that, expressing the opinion he does, of the president, he could tender him anything except insult. But we see it all clearly enough now. Roosevelt wants to get in the spotlight again and he proposes to command the regiment himself.

It doesn't make a bit of difference what the real motives are that lie back of it, the offer of so many manufacturers to keep the places open for their employees, volunteering for military service, and even have their wages go on, is fine and has the right ring anyway.

A Butterfly's Day

A DAY LITTLE white butterfly danced out away from his dark brown cradle and over the garden he flitted.

"Oh, but this is a beautiful world!" cried he, and I know there are a thousand things I want to see and learn."

Indeed there were so many sights to be seen that he hardly knew where to go first. But just as he was wavering a hard time to decide, a great big bumble-bee came buzzing by.

"Buzz, buzz, buzz! Glad to see you, Friend Butterfly," he said. "Better come over and see these clovers. There you will see the most interesting thing in the world."

"That's what I want to see," said the butterfly, and happily he followed the bee to the clover meadow.

After they had flitted around a few minutes and the bee had taken a nice fat ball of honey out of a great pink bloom, he said, "Better come and see my hive now. It's the most interesting thing in the world."

The butterfly thought it was very funny to have two most interesting things in the world, but he wanted to miss nothing, so he followed the bee to the hive. But as they went on their way they passed a big fat grasshopper who greeted the butterfly gaily.

"Good morning, Friend Butterfly," said he, "you're coming to see the meadow, aren't you? It's the most interesting thing in the world!"

"That puzzled the butterfly all the more, but he left the bee and followed the grasshopper because he looked so wise and big and surely he must be right."

The meadow was most beautiful and the grasshopper gladly showed all the sights. But hardly had they gone over half of it before a robin flew by.

"Good morning, Friend Butterfly," said he, "do come with me and see my nest. It's the most interesting thing in the world."

"Better come over and see these clovers"

In the tree waked up and heard them talking.

"What's that? What's that? Who's talking?" asked he.

"Just us," said the robin and the butterfly together. "We're looking at the most interesting thing in the world," added the robin.

"That's life! That's life!" said the owl solemnly.

"True enough! True enough!" said the little white butterfly, glad to have the puzzle solved, "and that's what I'm seeing everywhere." And again he flitted away to see something more. For he has only a day to live and there's much, oh, so much, to be seen.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

O-O-MCINTYRE.

New York, June 30—They are talking of giving a benefit for the great Oscar Hammerstein. Not that he wants it, and perhaps he would resent it—you can never tell which way Oscar's whim will turn.

But those who know and love him feel that something should be done.

Hammerstein is broke. He has done much for the public. He has given them grand opera on a cheap scale and he has in a measure made grand opera in America. Today he has nothing left except his high silk hat and a little cubbyhole over a drug store, where he can look out upon the scene of his former triumph—the Victoria theatre.

The Victoria has succumbed to the film craze and is now known as the Rialto. A few years ago it was making $100,000 a year, or so, which Hammerstein poured into his other ventures. But the impresario is cheerful—he never whines and he will not admit he is beaten. And, perhaps, he is not, for several times before he has had his fortune swept out of his grasp, only to make a new one.

His father was a Confederate soldier. His mother lives in New Orleans. He retains his mother's gentle nature, but all things are changed in New York—even natures.

His office is on Broadway, but he has a home on Riverside Drive, where the southern atmosphere is maintained because he loves it best.

"I've got two distinct languages," he says. "At home I talk as my father did, quietly and never positively, and I always choose my words instinctively well. In my work I shout. I use slang and am always certain I am right."

"And of course I have learned to talk through the side of my mouth and say, 'Aw go on.' They would think I was a highbrow, and they would laugh me out of New York. I tried it and I know."

A New Yorker got a thrill the other day. He was down on the dock and saw a big long shoreman take a chew of tobacco. It was the first time he had seen a man chew tobacco since he was a boy on a farm in Ohio. It is a fact that people do not use the weed in Gotham. It is said that Col. W. G. Sibley, the famous Ohio editor, came here once and asked for some eating tobacco in one of the ultra-ultra hotels, and the fair young blonde at the hotel cigar counter fainted away. Since that time Col. Sibley has never returned.

Dainty Isabelle d'Armond has fallen for the lure of the song "You're a Dangerous Girl," and is singing it around the Keith circuit.

A man in one of the stage boxes heard her the other night and called out: "If you're a dangerous girl, I want to be a hero and flirt with danger." A head usher put him out, but a lot of folk thought he expressed the right sentiments. Many more men would have liked to say the same thing, but friend wife happened along.

Here it is along toward the last of June and the weather is simply impossible. It has played hob with the summer resorts. Many of them have already gone into bankruptcy and others are losing money so fast they do not feel that they can ever make it up again. At best the resorts have only three months.

Last summer the resorts suffered, too, for the San Francisco fair took thousands to the coast, but as Europe was closed this year the resort keepers expected to make up their last summer's losses, but thus far it has been nothing but despair.

The days are now cold and dreary, and so are the rooms that should be full of happy, light-hearted, and most important of all, easy spenders.

Get busy, men! Don't let the fact that you are temporarily out of a job make your whole future look black. Read TIMES WANT ADS.

GLITTERING GENERALITIES

We want to suggest a new lodge—the Society for the Suppression of Glittering Generalities. This Society will expose, air, dull and disqualify all generalities that glitter.

Generalities cause a lot of trouble. The Germans and the Allies have glittering general ideas about each other—that is why there is a war. The fact is, you can't say anything so terribly general about the Germans or the Allies. The Democrats and Republicans have general ideas about each other that glitter too much.

Lovers glitter entirely too much about each other.

Whenever a new generality appears, the S. S. G. G. will wait it; it will not wait it dead, but it will wait the glitter off of it. It will subdue a lot of things that attempt to be too final and too sweeping.

A glittering generality is entirely too specific. The S. S. G. G. will attempt to make everything vague. If we can keep everything vague there will be no wars, no severe disagreements, no positive agreements—nothing but uncertainties in the world which is right.

Doc Koko's COLUMN

The Iceman
Be kind to the Iceman, my neighbor; He sweats while he's keeping you cool.

Without his intelligent labor Your butter would melt in a pool. Oh, bark to this hot weather ballad! Oh, list to this lay of good cheer! The lettuce would wilt in the salad If the iceman should fail to appear.

He sometimes trips up on addition, Though somehow he never falls down.

When you went to school for tuition He was helping the old man down town.

Mean persons who question his adding

The iceman will never forgive.

He knows when they die they'll go gadding

In a place where no iceman could live.

Forgive him in all of your dealing; Don't mind the hard things he might say

Your heart would grow cold and unfeeling

If you sat on an ice cake all day.

Perhaps if you've not been a nice man

You will go to some sulphurous pool,

And you'll long for a sight of the iceman

And the kitchen he used to keep cool.

A Machinist Specialist

The following tale is reported by our Falls correspondent. Where he got it, no one knows.

A Falls plant hired a stranger who recommended himself as a machinist. He told the manager he had been employed in the Ford factory at Detroit for several years. The new man didn't show the goods in the first week of his try-out and was called on the carpet.

"You say you were a machinist for four years in the Ford factory?" was the question put by the chief.

"Yes," replied the employee.

"What did you do there?"

"My job was to tighten bolt No. 34."—Akron Beacon-Journal.

We'll Stand Guard

The story is told of a staff officer at the war office who was much annoyed by one man who wanted a job as messenger at the headquarters. After the sixth or seventh visit the officer sent for the man who then held the position.

"Did you see that man just now, who has been here so many times?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," said the messenger with a grin.

"Do you know what he wants?"

"No, sir."

"Well, he wants your job, and if he gets in to me again he will get it."

The officer never saw the applicant again.

U. S. MOBILIZES TROOPS WHILE WAITING ON CARRANZA'S REPLY

OFFICIALS INCLINED TO ALLOW MEXICAN GENERAL TO DELAY REPLY WHILE TROOPS ARE BEING PLACED

Washington, D. C., June 30.—The Mexican situation stood today virtually where it was 24 hours ago, except that more national guardsmen were hurrying to the border and the time allowed General Carranza to declare his intentions toward American troops in Mexico was growing shorter.

With the troops captured at Carrizal back on American soil, apparently there was no intention on the part of the Washington government to force an immediate issue on its demand for assurance that there would be no repetition of the attack on General Pershing's forces.

No time limit was set in President Wilson's note making the demand, and there are indications that the administration would welcome further delay of a few days, as this would permit not only concentration of a stronger force to meet the needs of actual hostilities, if they should come, but also gathering of supplies, mobilization of transport facilities and strengthening of aerial

FRENCH LOSE AND RECAPTURE POSITION AT HILL NUMBER 304

Paris, June 30.—In a terrific attack upon the French positions east of Hill 304, in the Verdun sector, the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of the French trenches after the garrison had been literally buried under a storm of shells. The position was recaptured by a brilliant French counter-attack, according to an official statement issued by the French war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French position in Avocourt wood and west of Hill 304, but all their efforts are declared to have been checked with heavy losses to the attackers. Considerable activity is reported on the front from Neuport to the Aisne.

These men have a daring duty to perform if United States troops intervene in Mexico.

Wilson Ready To Fight, He Tells Large Audience

Philadelphia, Pa., June 30.—President Wilson, describing himself as "in a fighting mood," enunciated yesterday to a large crowd in Independence Square his conception of some of the cardinal American ideals. He declared that America in dealing with other nations, must "vindicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice and humanity; that 'America First' must be translated into action exalting it above all selfish interests; and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any small group.

Applause repeatedly interrupted the address. The crowd liked particularly the President's declaration that American principles must be vindicated as referring to the Mexican situation. At no time did Mr. Wilson mention Mexico or any foreign nation directly.

"I believe," the president said, "that America, the country we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, of justice and of humanity to which you have been devoted from the first.

"I believe that at whatever cost America should be just to the other people and treat other people as she demands that they should treat her. She has a right to demand that they treat her with justice and respect, and she has a right to insist that

A WAIT MESSAGE

Washington, June 30.—Word from Special Agent Rodgers, at Mexico City regarding Carranza's reply to the American note demanding a statement of his intentions still was awaited today by the state department. The last dispatch from Mr. Rodgers, dated Wednesday night, said he expected momentarily to be handed the reply.

TENSION ALONG BORDER RELAXES; NEGRO TROOPERS HAIL CAPTAIN AS ONE RETURNED FROM THE DEAD

El Paso, Texas, June 30.—Tension which had prevailed on the border since the Carrizal encounter, relaxed perceptibly today as a result of the safe return to American soil of the twenty-three troopers of the Tenth cavalry and the American scout, taken prisoner in the engagement.

Stories told by the soldiers that they had suffered no ill-treatment at the hands of the troops of the defuncto Mexican government and that every effort had been made to control violence manifested by the inflamed civil population at Villa Ahumada and Chihuahua City, where the prisoners were stoned and jeered, had marked effect here.

In official circles in Juarez, the Mexican city across the Rio Grande, news dispatches that the return of negro soldiers had averted the possibility of immediate retaliatory steps by the United States were received with obvious satisfaction.

Andres Garcia, Mexican consul at El Paso, expressed the belief that the first step looking toward a peaceful solution of the border problem had been taken and that others would follow shortly.

At the request of General George Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, Mr. Garcia today made preliminary arrangements for the return, at the expense of the American government to the United States, for burial of the bodies of the American soldiers killed at Carrizal. No accurate figures on the dead are available, but the missing number is fifteen, and it is believed all were killed.

At the Fort Bliss hospital, where the twenty-three troopers, who were brought from Chihuahua, are being held, it was stated that it will probably be several days before it can be determined whether the soldiers contracted any of the diseases prevalent in some districts in Northern Mexico, and before they can be returned to their troops.

When Captain Lewis S. Moray, of the Tenth cavalry, visited his troopers in the Fort Bliss barracks last night, they hailed him as one from the dead, having believed he could not survive the wounds which he sustained at Carrizal.

Captain Moray chatted with the negro cavalrymen for half an hour. Twenty-three watermelons, the gift of a local commission merchant, were awaiting the 23 negro troopers when they arrived at Fort Bliss.

"Oh, boy, you don't know how good this tastes after those Mexican frijoles," one of the twenty-three exclaimed, as he sank his teeth into a piece of melon.

General Francisco Gonzales, commanding the Juarez garrison, announced he expected to receive the arms, horses and equipment of the negro troopers from Chihuahua today and that he would turn them over immediately to General Bell.

Reports from points west along the border reaching El Paso today indicated a considerable anti-Mexican feeling as a result of numerous forays from the Mexican side, upon

FIFTH REGIMENT O. N. G. ARRIVES AT CAMP WILLIS

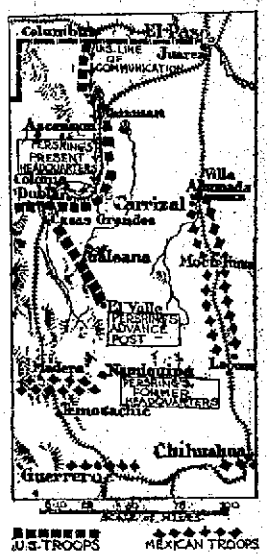

Columbus, O., June 30.—Mobilization of the Ohio National Guard in Camp Willis, near this city, was continued today with the arrival of the Fifth regiment. The Eighth regiment arrived yesterday and today had settled down to camp routine.

Other regiments will follow the First two during the next few days according to militia officers. The Sixth regiment, Colonel L. W. Howard, Toledo, commanding, is expected to be the next regiment that receives entraining orders. It will probably move to the camp Saturday. The Fourth regiment commanded by Colonel Byron L. Bargar, Columbus, will be in camp Sunday.

The Fifth regiment, which is due to arrive today, is commanded by Colonel Charles X. Zimmerman, Cleveland, has 1505 enlisted men. Its companies are distributed as follows: A at Berea; B at Elyria; C, F, I and K at Cleveland; D at Warren; E at Geneva; G at Norwalk; H and J at Youngstown, and L at Conneaut.

The new camp has been formally designated Camp Willis. Brigadier General W. V. McMalen, of Toledo, took charge of the camp yesterday and gave it its name.

Champs Win Double Header From The Lowly Burley Cubs

Five Straight Taken From Maysville Outfit; Team Goes To Frankfort

Maysville, Ky., June 30. The Portsmouth Cobblers took a double header from the lowly Burley Cubs here this afternoon. The first game was as pretty an exhibition of the great national pastime as was ever seen on the local grounds, the score being 5 to 4.

The second game started out like another humdinger but turned out to be an old time slugger match, both teams hammering the old pill all over the grounds. The score 13 to 12.

FIRST GAME

In the first game one run was scored in the first inning when Bush beat one out, took second on a passed ball and Dills singled. Another was made in the fourth when Dills singled, took second on an out and scored on Singleton single.

Three more came across in the sixth. Bauer, safe on a throw, Dills error, Dills singled to center, McHenry out, French to Kaiser. Spencer safe on Jones' error and Bauer scored. Singleton fanned. Demos singled and Dills and Spencer scored. Fisher lined to Kaiser.

A pass to McHenry and Fisher's single scored one in the fourth. Here is the Champs' pile up eight runs in the sixth of the second game and clinched it.

REDS WATCH PONIES

Thursday was an open date in the baseball schedule for the Cincinnati Reds, so they indulged in morning practice and then scattered "to the four winds" most of the windy conditions around the Latona race track. A few of the more frugal ones remained at home and counted their money and base hits, but a majority of the athletes tackled the sport of the ponies, with varying success. They begin a series with the Pittsburghs Friday at Reelfield field.

They Like Connie Mack

A certain newspaper man who claims to be close to Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and Frank Baker claims to have had quiet talks with all three and that each told him confidentially that they would give a good deal to be back with Connie Mack on the old job, and that experience had convinced them that Mack is the only manager to work for.

Yet you can never tell. This baseball is the oddest proposition in the world. On present form, the Reds shouldn't win three games from the four Eastern clubs. Yet it's a good bet that the Reds will arise, kick the very daylight out of the first division people.

JACK DILLON WINS OVER FRANK MORAN

JACK DILLON

New York, June 30.—Although outweighed by fully 35 pounds, and having a disadvantage of nearly six inches in height, Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis light-heavy-weight, cleverly out-fought and out-pointed Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavy weight, in nine rounds of a 10-round bout at the Federal League base ball grounds, Washington park, last night.

Moran's weight was announced at 204 pounds and Dillon's 169. Dillon went on the scales in fighting togs, while Moran was stripped. The Indianapolis man was in fine condition while Moran looked fat.

Dillon was the aggressor from the start, although Moran landed the first blow to the head. Moran, instead of playing a waiting game, started off to batter down his opponent, but Dillon was too fast for the big fellow.

Moran swung two hard rights to the stomach in the opening round but Dillon came back fast with short lefts and rights to body and face, and at the end of the round Dillon had a shade better of the round.

In the second round Moran missed several attempts to land his right swing while Dillon bored in with both hands at close quarters, always having the better of the milling, driving short lefts and rights to the stomach, and bringing up snappy right half arm jolts to the jaw and face.

The third round was the only round in which Moran had the advantage. He drove Dillon to the ropes with left and right smashes to the head and body and took Dillon across the ring, pounding him with both hands working at close range. Toward the end of this round, Dillon made a fast rally, getting in his short arm work.

Dillon rushed and smashed rights and lefts and uppercuts at close quarters, one of his snappy jolts sending the blood flying from Moran's nose in the fourth round. During the next six rounds Dillon always had the upper hand, ducking Moran's swings at times and then rushing to close quarters where he always landed three blows to Moran's one.

Moran tried frequently to get over a right swing, but never could land it effectively, although several times he got in telling blows on the body with both left and right. At no stage from the end of the third round was Dillon in danger as he evaded Moran's leads cleverly and Moran never appeared dangerous after Dillon had landed a left to the body and a right swing to the jaw which shook Moran from toes to head.

Moran tried desperately to land a punch in the tenth and got Dillon in the ropes with swinging lefts and rights to the body, but Dillon came back at close range again and with a right uppercut, out Moran's left eye, so the Pittsburgher left the ring with a swollen nose and his left eye bleeding freely. It was Dillon's fight.

And by the way, this boy Singleton is making good with the Champs. He has been catching beautiful ball and is hitting like a demon. In the first three games at Maysville he only made 7 hits, which is some clubbing. Singleton has taken up the running where Dilly left off.

Report from St. Louis has it that Umpire Ernest Quigley will quit his job with the National League after the present season to accept the position of manager of athletics at St. Louis University.

Won Five In Row

The Champs continue to shatter Ohio State League records. The club was the first one to win five straight from any team this year, the trick having been turned in Maysville. The scores were 12 to 10, 7 to 4, 3 to 1, 5 to 4 and 13 to 12. Can you beat it?

BACK IN THE FOLD

Ah, and now we have it, right off the bat. The heroic band of Progressives, the last of the old guard who fit, bled and died—politically speaking—beneath the blood red banner of Teddyism, were saved upon the last great day. They perched themselves upon the coat tails of their gallant leader and they sailed, with him, right back into the ranks of the dear old party which they left in baste four years ago. In the days to come they will sit in sack cloth and ashes and repent at leisure over the ashes of the Bull Moose. But we don't blame 'em. Far from it. They had a glorious time, no doubt, insuring 'em. They are going back where they belong, because they remained blinded to the true light and would not, or could not, let the scales fall from their eyes.

So, we wish 'em good luck and a warm reception. May they get a seat at the first table of the local G. O. P., and not have to eat in the kitchen with the camp followers. And here is the formal manner in which the Scioto County Bull Moose Old Guard laid the Moose to rest and grabbed hold of the tail of the Elephant:

June 26th, '16.

Mr. Harry E. Taylor, Editor, Times.

Dear Harry:

We notice the anxiety expressed in today's paper as to whether we are lined up for Hughes. We believe that there is an anxiety of this sort afflicting the Democratic party all over the country, and as we have many friends in that party, we hasten to relieve them and state, that we are lined up for Hughes and think all Progressives are in the same boat. With kindest regards to you and Vallee.

Sincerely yours,

JNO. G. BEHLEY,
PHIL. M. STREICH,
J. A. SALMON.

Huntington is fighting the dust nuisance by oiling her downtown business streets and doing away with the water wagon. In other respects we are to understand, of course, that our neighbor still rides on the front seat of the water wagon.

Paul Bagby, young son of Mr. Walter Bagby, gives promise of becoming a cartoonist of real merit one of these days. We have before us a sketch he made of Teddy leading, or rather trying to lead, an elephant and a moose, under the heading, "Can He Make Them Pull Together?" The idea is good and the drawing exceptionally good, considering the youth of the artist. Here's good luck to Paul. We hope some day when he gets through school that he will be with us on The Times.

And now that the last of the Old Guard of the Bull Moose of Scioto county has followed Teddy back into the Republican party we suppose that they are also prepared to join his legion and follow him in his dash to the Mexican border, as per plans announced last evening. Let us have another declaration of principles from John and Phil and J. H. S.

Jackson is to have a big centennial celebration early in July. Let us hope that the occasion will not be marred as was the Fall Festival last year by the sure thing men and the painted dancers who departed themselves upon the court house steps as per a court document recently quoted in The Times.

Editor Williams, of the Jackson Standard-Journal, is getting to be an expansionist. He says that we ought to capture Mexico and keep her and then gobble up the rest of the continent for good measure. "There ought to be only one flag on this continent, according to Mr. Williams. But what about the other nations? What have they to say about such a programme? And what of our own boasts of scrupulous observance of the rights of other nations?"

An East End citizen called up and remarked in an unexcited sort of way that he thought the mayor ought to also take a few minutes time some day and educate the drivers of his police patrol into the mysteries of the traffic ordinance. This citizen seemed to object as strongly to being run down by a police wagon on the wrong side of the street as by an ordinary automobile.

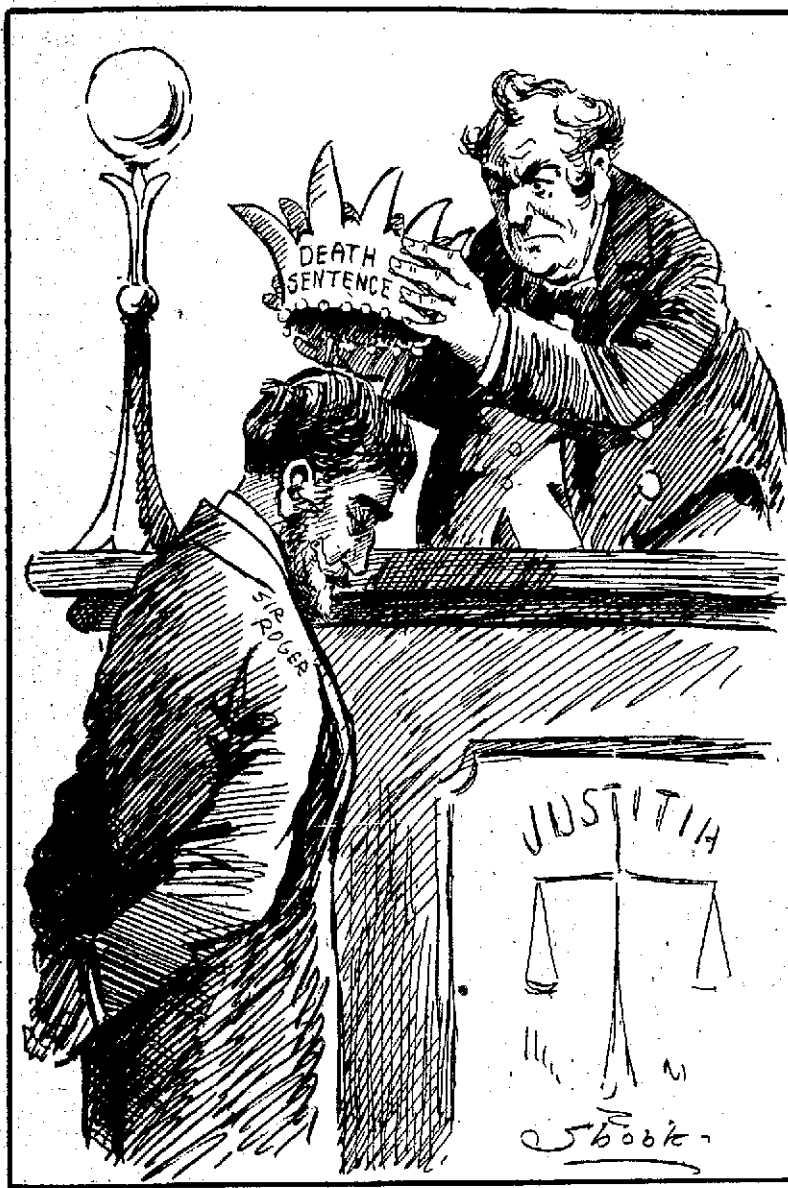

Frank Monnett has decided that he does not want to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, and so he has pulled his name off the primary ballot. It does not matter. He wouldn't have been very far from home when the votes were counted out.

The Ohio National Guard may be a little slow in mobilizing at Columbus but it is a whole lot better to be a few days behind than to rush the boys into an unsanitary camp and expose them to fever and disease. If there is to be any fighting we are quite sure there won't be any slowness about the Ohio soldiers.

It comes easy for Colonel Roosevelt to say that he will even appear on the same platform with Taft to show his new-found zeal for Hughes, but what about Taft? Hasn't he any feelings to be considered?

The worst suggestion we have heard is that Mr. Roosevelt should take Mr. Hughes' place on the supreme bench.—Chicago Evening Post.

THE MARTYR'S CROWN

There will be quite a different atmosphere down on the river front next spring when the rains descend and the old river man lifts up his head and begins to utter lugubrious sounds about the "snow in the mountains." With the new flood wall completed it will take the highest floods to do any damage or make people move.

One thing about that detour road around the Wheelersburg paving is that a mighty lot of people will get to appreciate the beauty of the surroundings in that well kept and prosperous farming neighborhood known as Dogwood Ridge.

We wonder how many of you read the Bed Time Tales that appear daily on this page. If you do not read them you are missing some genuinely interesting stories. They are delightful for young and old alike. Try it for a week and see if you do not agree with us.

In plans for motorization of the fire department it would not be amiss to see what could be done towards motorizing the steamers now in use. New York has successfully tried putting her steamers on trucks, and she finds it a mighty useful thing to have done. The cost would not be great and the benefit might be incalculable.

Talk about the superstition of the dark ages. At Shelbyville, Illinois, a boy disappeared Saturday, and a fortune teller has been applied to, to reveal his whereabouts, not as an individual bit of credulity, but as a community effort.

Some people are lucky in getting free advertising. Chicago capitalists subscribed a goodly sum to buy certain kinds of armament for the state militia, but the federal government declined it on the ground that it already had down on the Mexican border all that sort of material that would possibly be of use.

In looking over some of outcountry exchanges we wonder how there can be such good papers and looking over others we wonder how there can be such poor ones.

Roosevelt has offered to raise a regiment. We were surprised, that, expressing the opinion he does, of the president, he could tender him anything except insult. But we see it all clearly enough now. Roosevelt wants to get in the spotlight again and he proposes to command the regiment himself.

It doesn't make a bit of difference what the real motives are that lie back of it, the offer of so many manufacturers to keep the places open for their employees, volunteering for military service, and even have their wages go on, is fine and has the right ring anyway.

A Butterfly's Day

A dainty little white butterfly danced out away from his dark brown cradle and over the garden he flitted.

"Oh, but this is a beautiful world!" cried he. "And I know there are a thousand things I want to see and learn."

Indeed there were so many sights to be seen that he hardly knew where to go first. But just as he was having a hard time to decide, a great big bumble-bee came a-buzzing by.

"Bzz, bzz, bzz! Glad to see you, Friend Butterfly," he said. "Better come over and see these clovers. There you will see the most interesting thing in the world."

"That's what I want to see," said the butterfly, and happily he followed the bee to the clover meadow.

After they had flitted around a few minutes and the bee had taken a nice fat ball of honey out of a great pink bloom, he said, "Better come and see my hive now. It's the most interesting thing in the world."

The butterfly thought it was very funny to have two most interesting things in the world, but he wanted to miss nothing, so he followed the bee to the hive. But as they went on their way they passed a big fat grasshopper who greeted the butterfly gaily.

"Good morning, Friend Butterfly," said he, "you're coming to see the meadow, aren't you? It's the most interesting thing in the world!"

That puzzled the butterfly all the more, but he left the bee and followed the grasshopper because he looked so wise and big and surely he must be right.

The meadow was most beautiful and the grasshopper gladly showed all the sights. But hardly had they gone over half of it before a robin flew by.

"Good morning, Friend Butterfly," said he. "Do come with me and see my nest. It's the most interesting thing in the world."

"Dear me, then I do want to see it," said the butterfly, and he left the grasshopper and followed the robin, over to his nest.

Now while they were admiring that nest, the old owl who lived higher up in the tree, saw them.

"Better come over and see these clovers," said the owl.

In the tree he saw and heard them talking.

"What's that? What's that? Who's talking?" asked he.

"Just us," said the robin and the butterfly together. "We're looking at the most interesting thing in the world," added the robin.

"That's life! That's life!" said the owl sleepily.

"True enough! True enough!" said the little white butterfly, glad to have the puzzle solved, "and that's what I'm seeing everywhere." And again he flitted away to see something more. For he has only a day to live and there's much, oh, so much, to be seen.

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

New York, June 30—They are talking of giving a benefit for the great Oscar Hammerstein. Not that he wants it, and perhaps he would resent it—you can never tell which way Oscar's whim will turn.

But those who know and love him feel that something should be done. Hammerstein is broke. He has done much for the public. He has given them grand opera on a cheaper scale and he has in a measure made grand opera in America.

Today he has nothing left except his high silk hat and a little cubbyhole over a drug store, where he can look out upon the scene of his former triumph—the Victoria theatre.

The Victoria has succumbed to the film craze and is now known as the Rialto. A few years ago it was making $100,000 a year, or so, which Hammerstein poured into his other ventures. But the impresario is cheerful—he never whines and he will not admit he is beaten. And, perhaps, he is not, for several times before he has had his fortune swept out of his grasp, only to make a new one.

His father was a Confederate soldier. His mother lives in New Orleans. He retains his mother's gentle nature, but all things are changed in New York—even nature. His office is on Broadway, but he has a home on Riverside Drive, where the southern atmosphere is maintained because he loves it best.

"I've got two distinct languages," he says. "At home I talk as my father did, quietly and never positively, and I always choose my words instinctively well. In my work I shout. I use slang and am always certain I am right."

"And of course I have learned to talk through the side of my mouth and say, 'Aw go on.' They would think I was a highbrow and they would laugh me out of New York. I tried it and I know."

A New Yorker got a thrill the other day. He was down on the dock and saw a big long shoreman take a chew of tobacco. It was the first time he had seen a man chew tobacco since he was a boy on a farm in Ohio. It is a fact that people do not use the weed in Gotham. It is said that Col. W. G. Sibley, the famous Ohio editor, came here once and asked for some eating tobacco in one of the ultra-ultra hotels, and the fair young blonde at the hotel cigar counter faintly away. Since that time Col. Sibley has never returned.

Dainty Isabelle d'Armond has fallen for the lure of the song "You're a Dangerous Girl," and is singing it around the Keith circuit. A man in one of the stage boxes heard her the other night and called out: "If you're a dangerous girl, I want to be a hero and fight with danger." A head usher put him out, but a lot of folk thought he expressed the right sentiments. Many more men would have liked to say the same thing, but friend wife happened along.

Here it is along toward the last of June and the weather is simply impossible. It has played hob with the summer resorts. Many of them have already gone into bankruptcy and others are losing money so fast they do not feel that they can ever make it up again. At best the resorts have only three months.

Last summer the resorts suffered, too, for the San Francisco fair took thousands to the coast, but as Europe was closed this year the resort keepers expected to make up their last summer's losses, but thus far it has been nothing but despair. The days are now cold and dreary, and so are the rooms that should be full of happy, light-hearted, and, most important of all, easy spenders.

A Machinist Specialist
The following tale is reported by our Falls correspondent. Where he got it, no one knows.
A Falls plant hired a stranger who recommended himself as a machinist. He told the manager he had been employed in the Ford factory at Detroit for several years. The new man didn't show the goods in the first week of his try-out and was called on the carpet.

"You say you were a machinist for four years in the Ford factory?" was the question put by the chief.
"Yep," replied the employee.
"What did you do there?"
"My job was to tighten bolt No. 34."—Alton Beacon-Journal.

We'll Stand Guard
The story is told of a staff officer at the war office who was much annoyed by one man who wanted a job as messenger at the headquarters. After the sixth or seventh visit the officer sent for the man who then held the position.

"Did you see that man just now, who has been here so many times?" he asked.
"Yes, sir," said the messenger with a grin.
"Do you know what he wants?"
"No, sir."
"Well, he wants your job, and if he gets in to me again he will get it." The officer never saw the applicant again.

Council Authorizes Securing Bids For Fixing Up Waterworks Pumps

City council at a called meeting Thursday night, reappointed to the city's use the $11,422.50 still due the John H. McGowan company, of Cincinnati, on its local water works contract, declared said contract abandoned, security forfeited and material transferred to the city and authorized the service director to advertise for bids and proceed with the work of getting the plant in shape.

According to the ordinance passed by council any deficiency that might result through the funds proving insufficient to complete the work is to be charged against the McGowan company and its bondsmen. The action of council is expected to throw the controversy between the city and the Cincinnati concern over its pumping machinery work into the courts for adjustment.

Other ordinances passed at the special meeting were the following: Ordinance appropriating $99.45 to pay for extra nurses employed at Hempstead hospital during the winter season; ordinance appropriating $271.14 to pay substitute policemen serving during the summer vacation period; ordinance paying Capt. Billy Williamson $135 salary for the six weeks' time lost by illness; ordinance appropriating $254.52 salary for substitute firemen serving during vacation period; ordinance appropriating $972.97 to pay an extra engineer and two well men at the new water works the city was obliged to employ after the McGowan company called off a similar force of its own men.

"A Huntress of Men," Red Feather drama, is an entertaining five reel offering adapted for the screen by Catherine Carr from a story by J. Vera Tyler. Mary Fuller, Joseph K. Gerard and Sidney Bracy play the leads. The former appears as a social favorite, who has her pick and choice of men. Fleming, portrayed by Mr. Gerard, is a mining man, who determines to tame her. He makes an advance so bold that she marries him at once. Then comes the clash of wills, which ends only after the girl learns that she really loves him. The settings are very attractive and Miss Fuller wears innumerable stunning gowns. A story of great action. A brightly pictured social study, well handled.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING ON SHANTYBOAT DEAD

CHARLES H. HILL DIES AT CITY HOSPITAL; GUN USER STILL FREE

Charles H. Hill, the new C. & O. Northern bridge riveter, who was shot through the neck and abdomen during a struggle on his houseboat at Sciotoville Wednesday evening with a man supposed to be Grover "Red" Kennedy, died at Hempstead hospital Thursday night at 10:30 o'clock. Hill's body was turned over to County Undertaker John Dice to be prepared for burial. At the sheriff's office Friday morning it was stated lines were out looking to the apprehension of Kennedy, who is said to have leaped into a skiff and escaped to the Kentucky side immediately after the shooting.

Hill's wife, Mrs. Eureka May-Frize, whom he in an ante-mortem statement blamed for all the trouble, accusing her of having been intimate with Kennedy and of having surprised them together in a bedroom of the boat, visited him at different times during the day, but was not present when he expired.

The woman, in cleaning up the boat and removing evidences of the desperate struggle, Thursday, found one of her husband's teeth on the floor. It had been shot out of his jaw when the second bullet was fired through his face and mouth. She wrapped up the molar in a handkerchief and carried it around all day exhibiting it to various persons.

Kennedy, according to reports around Sciotoville, met a boy named Art Goodman, living on the river bank, near the Sciotoville car line, the day before the tragedy and told him that there had been trouble on Hill's boat Tuesday night and said to him that there would be some more Wednesday night.

BOY HIT BY AUTO, IS SLIGHTLY HURT

David Holley, 9-year-old son of Mrs. Nancy Holley, of Harrisonville, New Boston, was struck and knocked to the paved street by Ira Fenner's Ford touring car, about eight o'clock Friday morning, on Harrisonville avenue, north of Oak street, New Boston. Fenner was on his way to Harrisonville and the boy, it is claimed, run in front of the machine, when he suddenly darted across the street. Fenner sent his car onto the sidewalk to keep from hitting the boy, but the lad was not in the clear and received a glancing blow, the force being enough to knock him down. He was only shaken up and bruised.

Foot Bridge Wanted

Employees of the Excelsior and Irving Drew shoe factories are circulating petitions asking that a foot bridge be erected over the N. & W. and B. & O. tracks at the Hotel-ins avenue crossing. The improvement sought has been taken up with both the city and board of trade officials. The latter have referred it to their railroad committee, which is expected to take some action upon it as soon as the new N. & W. depot site is definitely settled. The shoe workers claim in their petition that long freight trains blocking the crossing frequently make them late for work.

CHANGES ON B. & O.

Local B. & O. officials were pleased to learn of the promotion of J. M. Davis from general manager to vice president of the B. & O. Southwestern Railway, and of C. W. Calloway succeeding him as general manager. R. N. Begien, general superintendent, becomes chief engineer of all lines. All three officials have been frequent visitors in Portsmouth.

"DON'T CRY MAMMA" SAID LITTLE BILLIE BRUSHART WHEN HIT BY AN AUTO

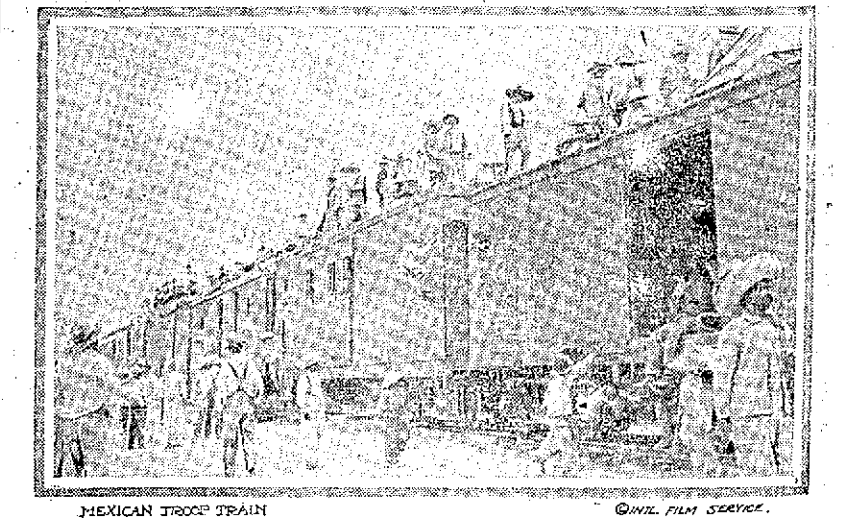

"Don't cry, mamma," said little Billie Brushart, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brushart, of 410 Glover street, while he was being carried to the doctor's office to have his injuries dressed, after he had been struck by the J. L. Watkins touring car and dragged, about seven o'clock Thursday evening, the accident taking place on Glover street near Fifth street. Mrs. Brushart and son were on their way to Millbrook park and were walking north on Glover. Billie had crossed the street and was calling for his mother to come across the street. She called for him to come back to her. After walking a short distance on the opposite side of the street the lad suddenly started back to his mother. The Watkins machine, occupied by Leigh, Jr., and Kearns Watkins, and driven by Leigh, Jr., was going north on Glover street and struck the boy, who was knocked down and dragged a short distance. The mother picked the lad up and carried him to Dr. W. A. Braunlin's office on Ninth street, where a close examination of his injuries was made. He had a gash over his left eye that required several stitches to close, a gash on the left side of the back of his head, both knees bruised and lacerated, and bruises on the lip and under the chin. The left eye was also bruised and badly inflamed. Mr. Brushart, who represents the Joseph G. Reed Company, was in Huntington, W. Va., at the time of the accident. He arrived home Friday morning. Billie was reported resting easy Friday morning.
